ALLIES MASS FOR ATTACK

BASEL, Switzerland, May 20 (AP)—Gen. Maxime Weygand, the new allied generalissimo, apparently is shaping a powerful pincers counter offensive from the Valenciennes and Rethel aras, it was reported here today.

Reports indicated that a powerful British-Belgian force, supported by French motorized units, was massing in the Valenciennes region and still more powerful French concentrations were assembling at Rheims and Rethel, behind the Aisne river. Valencienes is just across the Belgian frontier in France along the northern flank of the Allies' Western Front. Rethel is on the south side of the German "bulge" into northern France.

Weygand, who succeeded Gen. Maurice Gamelin yesterday as the Allied commander-in-chief, is said to envisage a counter thrust from these two sides, aimed at sewing up the German pocket, which has reached a point about 80 miles northeast of Paris.

Such a maneuver, is successful, could re-establish the French line along the Ardenes through Mons to Ghent.

Heavy French concentrations south of Rethel were reported to include large tank an darmored car divisions and to be ready to move despite constant Nazi bombing raids from airports behind the Rhine.

ALLIES ADMIT NAZI GAINS MAKE OUTLOOK MORE GRIM

Germany's legions, still smashing forward in the 11th day of the war in the west, today captured St. Quentin, 80 miles northeast of Paris, pushed on in a drive toward the Channel ports opposite England and reached the historic Somme battlefield of 1916.

The German high command reported Nazi forces threw back a French-Belgian army seeking to escape southward on the slowly retreating Allied line in northern France.

1—A drive west from the Cambrai sector, 25 miles north of St. Quentin, in an attempt to reach the North sea and cut off British troops engaged in desperate fighting in Belgium.

2—Or, a continued advance southwest from St. Quentin, down the Oise river valley, to Paris.

800,000 Nazi Reserves Ready

The German high command apparently intended to keep the Allies guessing as to the target of the main Nazi offensive.

Whatever the direction, Hitler's onrushing war machine reportedly had 800,000 reinforcements withdrawn from Holland ready to throw into the fray.

Meanwhile bitter conflict see-sawing along an 80-mile front in northern France neared the critical stage as the Allies stiffened their resistance to Germany's iron legions under a new commander-in-chief, Gen. Maxime Weygand.

The French acknowledged the fall of St. Quentin. Rethel, southeast of that textile manufacturing center and 100 miles from the capital, was another focal point in the fighting.

Allied troops were reported fighting "vigorously" against waves of tanks and planes, while seeking to determine whether the Germans would make Paris or the English channel the objective of their push.

If successful in the latter maneuver they would not only isolate British forces fighting in Belgium, but would obtain vital bases for a direct assault upon England.

Germans Gain Somme Foothold

Weygand, 73-year-old veteran of the World War and chief of staff under Marshal Foch in that conflict, was summoned yesterday to take command of the Allied land forces, succeeding Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin.

The situation was admittedly almost as dark as that which confronted the Allies in 1918, when Kaiser Wilhelm summoned all of Germany's waning powers in a terrific offensive that came near to success.

From conflicting reports it appeared that the Germans already had gained a foothold on the west bank of the Somme in the St. Quentin sector and were attempting to fan out there.

Near Rethel the Germans admittedly crossed the Aisne river, but the French said they had been repulsed on the southern bank of the stream.

Farther east at Montmedy, near the junction of the French, Belgian and Luxembourg borders, the Nazi high command claimed capture of an important fortress in the northern extension of the Maginot Line, identified as "Fort 505." The French said the Germans had been thrown back in this sector after a severe frontal attack.

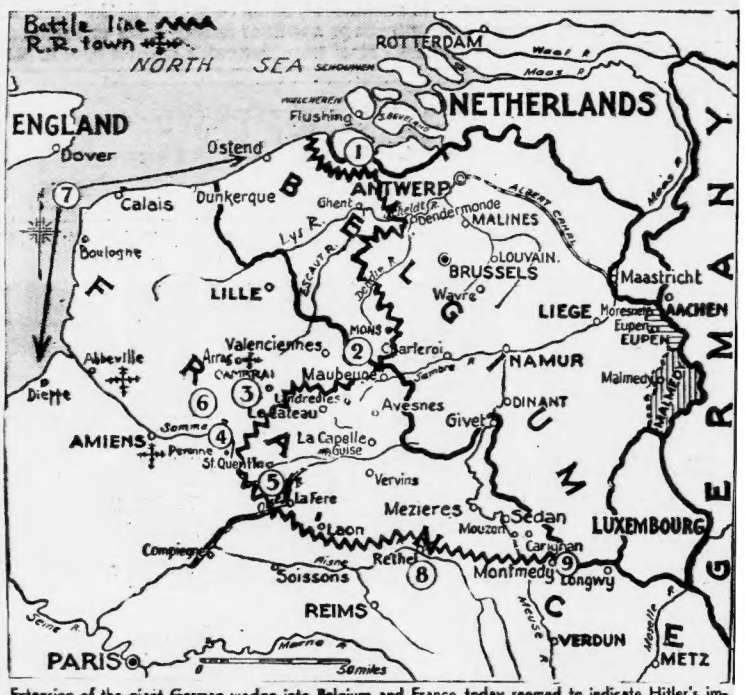
Nations at war strive to emphasize those features of the news which reflect most favorably their own successes and minimize enemy advantages.



Extension of the giant German wedge into Belgium and France today seemed to indicate Hitler's immediate war aim is to overcome the Channel ports. From the Dutch border an army of 800,000 is battering along the Scheldt and Escaut rivers (1), aimed at Ostend and Dunkirk (7). Fighting continues on a front from Maubouge (2) through Cambrai (3 and Peronne (4) to La Fere (5) on much of the old Somme battlefield of the first World War. The line then bends to the east, following the Aisne river valleys past Rethel (8), where the Allies are reported shaping a counter-atack, and thence to Montmedy (9), when the Germans claimed a Maginot line fort taken and the French asserted they had thrown the Germans back. Eupen, Montmedy and Morasnet (10) were anexed by Hitler as part of the German Reich.

New Allied Retreat Claimed By Hitler's Headquarters

BERLIN, May 20 (INS)—Further Allied retreats in France and continuance of Nazi Germany's relentless drive toward the Channel ports were claimed in an official communique issued by the German high command today.

In Belgium, the Dendre river has been crossed, it was said, and the Escaut (Scheld) river reached.

This indicated that the Germans are driving toward Courtrai, where only the Lys river and extreme western Belgian fortifications stand between them and the channel.—Editor's Note.

FROM HITLER'S CAMP

"German troops continued pursuing enemy rear guards.

"The Dendre has been crossed and the upper Escaut reached. British troops are rapidly marching toward the channel ports.

This was interpreted as meaning a British retreat westward.—Editor's Note.

"At Maubeuge and south of Valenciennes, attacks by the Franco-Belgian army attempting to break through toward the south were repulsed with heaviest losses, especially in tank divisions.

"Following the failure of its attempt to break through, the enemy is heavily shaken and is now withdrawing toward the west.

FOR "COLDBLOODEDNESS"

"The entire inner forts of Liege and Namur are in our hands with the exception of one fortress at Namur.

A British military spokesman said the Belgians were still holding Liege and Namur.—Editor's Note.

"In tank fighting the past few days in Belgium, Baron Nolde, first lieutenant of an armored regiment, distinguished himself through special coldbloodedness (kaltbluetigkeit).

"The German air force yesterday increased its attacks on rear communications and roads along which the enemy is retreating in northern France and Belgium.

"Our air force successfully continued attacks on enemy airports.

"During reconnaissance off the Belgo-Dutch coast two enemy destroyers were destroyed and one destroyer and a French torpedo boat disabled, as well as three merchantmen, totalling approximately 15,000 tons.

"Total enemy losses yesterday were 143 airplanes, including 95 shot down in air duels, 15 by anti-aircraft fire and the remainder on the ground. Thirty-one German planes are missing.

U. S. Writer at Front Tells What Makes Hitler War Machine Go On

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

WITH THE GERMAN WESTERN ARMIES, May 20 (AP)—The air force is Germany's super-ace in this war.

The first line, therefore, usually is where the dive-bombers have done their devastating work, but only now, with the German forces at last, am I able to see what the air arm really means in war.

It has been the dream of every newspaperman in Berlin, ever since May 10 when the Reich's gigantic offensive by way of Holland and Belgium began, to see Hitler's amazing and awe-inspiring armed forces in action.

Not until yesterday, however, did Hitler's invitation give permission for three Americans to join the active forces.

After crossing over from the last German border town in the dust and morning mist mingled with clouds of smoke from roaring planes, it took us only a short time to realize how war has been revolutionized by the air force.

HOW HITLER OPERATES

This is how Germany operates in this decisive area:

First, an air squadron determines just how enemy troops are moving.

The fliers learn exactly the strength of the enemy's forces, their equipment, types of weapons used and other details.

With this knowledge, reinforced by photographs, the Germans' terrorizing Stukas (dive bombers), followed by heavy bombers, dash madly down upon the enemy, smashing towns—if necessary—through which troops are pushing, demolishing railway tracks, telephone lines and industrial plants and annihilating marching columns.

Meanwhile the air information service informs speedy mechanized units where the bombing has been successful.

Quick as lightning these dart forward in the face of the enemy with death-disdaining courage

ALLIES HOLDING AS BLITZ LOSES ITS EARLY PUNCH

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 20—The battle which may decide the history of the world blasted fresh areas in northern France and Belgium today and brought death to thousands each hour.

But Paris breathed easier as it became plain that for the time being at least the Germans have diverted their drive from the French capital and are concentrating on reaching the channel ports.

(Two words censored.) Grimmest realists among observers here were able to discover two points of advantage for the Allied side today.

The German drive, although continuing, lacks all the ferocious violence it had the first few days.

PLANES, TANKS, INFANTRY

Neutral military observers declare that the Germans won most of their ground by the terrorizing effect of wave after wave of bombing planes, followed by mass tanks leading the infantry.

They point out that the effect of these wave bombings upon defenders in or out of trenches is actually less lethal than artillery fire, but at first they had a much more damaging effect psychologically.

After last week's experience, however, the Allied troops have learned to stand up to these tactics and in the opinion of neutral observers the Germans cannot expect any more such easy victories as in the Belgian battle.

The general strategy of battle is now analyzed by experts thus:

Hitler, in the first place, once more fooled nearly everybody by leading the world to believe he intended merely to drive for the Dutch coast, then hold the French along the Belgian frontier, and then deliver his famous long-awaited air blow upon England.

HIS ALL AGAINST FRANCE

In anticipation of an aerial invasion of England, the British held and are still holding the main body of their armed forces in the British Isles.

This was the situation when Hitler suddenly flung his entire strength upon the French with such unmitigated fury that even this army — which many observers regarded as the world's greatest — was compelled to fall back.

So astonishing was the German advance that many asked how it could be possible, and only now can the answer be given.

(Here eight lines censored.)

The result was that Hitler has added four complete mechanized divisions to his army since Poland was taken.

10 TANK DIVISIONS

He had six of these when he obliterated Poland but now has ten. And it is these most powerful weapons of offense the world has even seen which today are performing with such shocking effectiveness.

Existence of these swiftly moving mechanized divisions, one of which I saw enter Vienna at the time of the anschluss 24 hours after it left Berlin, makes it triply urgent that the Allies prevent a break-through.

If they ever should pierce the Allied line, German tank units would attempt to overrun the country the same way they did Poland. With his 10 mechanized divisions like 10 fingers of steel, Hitler's attempt would be to squeeze France lifeless within so short a time as to make the world gasp.

But this reckons without the French army.

FATEFUL 48 HOURS

Neutral observers viewing today's mighty conflict and comparing French resistance with that put up by all of Germany's previous victims, have come to the conclusion that the French is still a first-class army of a great power and that it will be a grave error for the out-

Knickerbocker Heads to Front

H. R. Knickerbocker, famous correspondent of International News Service, whose dispatches from Paris and London in the opening months of Europe's new war attracted international attention, has now returned to Paris and will soon go up to the battlefront. The following dispatch reveals that for the present at least the German drive has swerved away from Paris.

Writer Sees War On Hitler's Bid

DEFENSE SPEEDED; LINDY HITS DRIVE

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—A quick step-up of American warplane production, with the twin goal of rushing Allied orders and expanding tenfold the country's own flying forces, became the immediate spearhead today of the government defensive drive.

While representatives of more than 40 aviation companies joined Army, Navy and Treasury officials in discussing a 50,000 plane program, other preparedness developments also came to the front.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, decrying "hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion," said in a radio speech that "we are in danger . . . because American people have attempted to interfere with the internal affairs of Europe."

The Senate appropriations committee considered the $1,827,000,000 Army bill, hoping to send both that measure and the $1,303,980,000 Navy bill to the White House by June 1.

Senators George (D.) of Georgia and Connally (D.) of Texas advocated establishing an industrial-labor-military board as the House naval committee took up a bill designed to speed shipbuilding by relaxing labor laws.

7 Firemen Felled in Club Blaze

Seven firemen were made sick by smoke fumes and a score more were endangered by hot air explosions and flying glass as a two-alarm fire today damaged Kitty Brando's Club and three business concerns in an Arlington st. building.

For a few moments, while pieces of apparatus were speeding to the scene, billowing flames heated the stone walls of the First Corps Cadet Armory and Notre Dame des Victoires Church, both separated by narrow alleys from the flaming building.

Ten families in an apartment building in Isabella st., also near the fire, were aroused as a precautionary measure.

Breaking out in a cabinet shop at the rear of the building, the fire soon swept up through the three floors and burst through the roof.

Smoke and heat blew out more than a dozen windows, raining glass fragments on firemen as they attempted to raise ladders.

Heavy smoke rolled through the structure and blackened the newly renovated Kitty Brando's Club. A plumbing supply company and screen manufacturing concern were heavily damaged.

An unofficial estimate set the loss at $18,000. The origin of the fire was undetermined.

Report Swedes Tell Hitler 'No'

STOCKHOLM, May 20 (AP)—Usually well informed circles declared themselves convinced today Sweden had made plain to Germany she could not permit transit of Nazi troops and supplies across this nation to help lift the Allied siege against German-held Narvik, Norwegian ore port.

Rumors coincided with reports indicating surrender of the small German force at Narvik was imminent, and that only by quick reinforcements could Germany hope to prevent defeat there. Allied and Norwegian forces were reported steadily beating down stubborn resistance of the Narvik Nazis.

Beatings Win Bride Divorce

Bed time was fight time in the home of youthful, pretty Mrs. Dorothy Riley Babbin of Charlestown and her husband, John, she testified in Suffolk Probate Court today.

Her description of beatings she said she received won her an uncontested divorce on grounds of cruelty.

"Just a few weeks after our marriage last October my husband punched me in bed," she told Judge John V. Mahoney.

"He punched me in the chin that time. On Dec. 12 he punched and kicked me. He kicked me in the stomach and kicked me out of bed."

FINDS HER HUSBAND SHOT

Startled by a shot today in her home, Mrs. Marion C. Stary, Tilden rd., Scituate, found her husband, Robert Stary, 45, a Scituate antique dealer, shot through the head and unconscious, with a .32-calibre revolver by his side.

She called Scituate police and Patrolman Joseph A. Dwyer and Dr. William F. Murphy responded.

They raced the injured man to Massachusetts General Hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list.

Mrs. Stary told authorities her husband has been in a despondent mood the past few days.

Shots Halt Boy Theft Suspect

Seized in Cambridge today after a chase in which four shots were fired, a 15-year-old boy admitted a series of store breaks and auto thefts and named a 23-year-old companion, according to police.

The capture occurred after residents of Newtowne Court, near Central sq., reported two youths were stripping an auto.

The auto was found to have been stolen from a Belmont man. In a second stolen car, nearby, nine sets of stolen registration plates were found.

Stolen Pistol May Have Killed Allyn

WESTFIELD, May 20—Investigators today probed the possibility that a stolen gun was the death weapon in the Allyn murder case.

The gun, a .22 caliber pistol, vanished a year ago after it was shipped to this district by the High Standard Manufacturing Co. of New Haven, Ct., police were told.

Dist. Atty. Thomas F. Moriarty said records of the Carlyle Hardware Co., of Springfield, show that that firm shipped the weapon to the Elm Cycle and Auto Supply Co., here.

Joseph Kvitsky, a proprietor of the Westfield firm, said, however, that while his records showed that the shipment was received and paid for, there was no record to show final disposal of the gun.

Kvitsky expressed opinion to police that the gun never actually reached the store or that it might have been stolen from the store's booth at the Springfield Sportsman's Show, held about that time.

Ballistic experts, after examining several shells found at the home of the slain Prof. Lewis B. Allyn, have determined that the gun was one of a type manufactured exclusively by the New Haven company.

Practically every other gun of the type sought has been checked in this district and eliminated as the murder weapon, officials said

Army of 750,000 Urged by Lodge

CAMP BEAUREGARD, La., May 20 (AP)—Senator Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts, advocated today a regular United States Army of 750,000 men while several officers, here for the Third Army maneuvers, said they believed that Americans might be receptive soon to compulsory military training.

Senator Lodge, a cavalry reserve captain here for a week's active duty in the war games, said he thought the Army could reach its present goal of 280,000 by next fall.

An Army officer, declining use of his name, said in informal discussion, "I believe they are about ready for compulsory training. The people aren't shocked any more by what happens. They are falling right in line with the President's request for defense funds.

Baby Loses Quest Of Cat and Fiddle

The fond imaginings of Mary Elizabeth Byrne, 2½, of Shannon st., Brighton, were dashed today, for she had failed to find the cat or the fiddle or the cow that jumped over the moon.

A moon, a big, beaming moon was there plain as could be when Mary, clad in her nightie, wandered from her home at midnight to find the famous characters in her story books.

PAIR ASLEEP

Also in the house was the baby's great-grandfather, Patrick J. McHugh.

When the parents returned, they found the girl and the old man asleep, but the baby's crib was unoccupied.

Alarmed, they called police and several cruising cars were ordered to patrol the neighborhood. Failing to find the child in the streets, police began arousing neighbors.

It was then they found the youngster asleep in the home of her playmate, Donald Jordan, next door.

WALKING BAREFOOT

Donald's father, Henry Jordan, told them he met the child several blocks from her home, walking in barefeet and clothed only in pajamas, as he was returning from work shortly after midnight.

When he saw the Byrne home in darkness, Jordan said, he carried the little girl into his own home and put her to bed, pending the arrival of the Byrnes.

STROLLER — Having been found by her worried parents after frantic search, little Mary Byrne, two, of Brighton, is back home, barefoot and happy. Awakened by the moonlight, she wandered out and strolled the streets until taken in by a neighbor.

Boy's Death Arouses Winthrop

Indignant Winthrop residents today demanded that high voltage be shut down on the abandoned Narrow Gauge R. R. following the electrocution of 13-year-old Thomas Mason, Jr., of Shirley st., Winthrop.

The youngster was shocked to death when his hand touched a high tension wire carrying 2300 volts as he played tag.

When the railroad was abandoned several months ago the power was shut off, but, according to police, was turned on again after copper wire had been stolen.

Charles Roberts, 13, who was trying to tag him had climbed part way up a stanchion and touched Mason's foot just at the moment of contact with the wire. He was thrown down and received a shock that stunned him. When Mason failed to come down from the crossbeam to which he had climbed the other boys became frightened and notified Officer John P. Powell, on duty on Shirley st.

The current was shut off and Firemen Charles Flanagan and Jerry Wyman, working under direction of Chief William Floyd, brought down the body. They, with police and Dr. Charles Mahoney, worked for nearly an hour over it without result.

Minstrel Show On Tonight

The second of two performances of its annual "Maytime Minstrels" will be presented tonight in the Jeremiah E. Burke School auditorium, Roxbury, by St. Joseph's Junior Alumni Association of the district.

As in previous years, the minstrels have been coached and directed by Miss Gertrude Dolan, noted Roxbury dance and stage teacher.

Son Saves Father From Drowning

A member of the coal barge Hartford was saved from drowning today when his son plunged overboard from a pier on Bridge st., N. Weymouth, and held him afloat until police arrived.

Lazare Pelletier, 63, Exeter, N. H., was returning to the barge with his son John, 28, when he lost his balance and fell overboard, striking his head against the barge. Police drew both men to safety.

Takes War to Jog Debtors

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Best cartoon of the war from the fighting so) shows two English Tommies outside a French estaminet, One of 'em says, "don't go in there, Alf, I owe them five francs from the last war."

Credit is expensive when it requires a World War to jog the debtor's memory.

Well, things are improving if it's only memories. And the lads who bit the hand that fed 'em are back for another meal.

Sleeping Cop Gets Military Blast from Kane

Woburn's Mayor William E. Kane, ex-marine, dipped into the military today as he called on the carpet a patrolman accused of sleeping on duty.

"In war time, a sentinel found asleep would be shot," declared the mayor, referring to Patrolman Charles B. Walsh.

"Policemen are sentinels and I'm terribly upset."

It was on Walsh's beat that the swastika was found flying on the Linnscott School flagpole.

TOBIN WARNS OF TRAITORS

The greatest danger to the American form of government is found within our own borders—the fifth columns of dictator nations.

This was the warning of Mayor Tobin, who declared that the United States must strike swiftly and surely against those attacking our government from within, in an address in Faneuil Hall.

The mayor was one of a group of speakers at special patriotic exercises in observance of "I Am An American Day" set apart by President Roosevelt.

The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars took prominent parts, as did officials of the Departments of Immigration, and Naturalization.

Henry Nicolls ,Assistant Director of Immigration and Naturalization, opened the meeting and introduced the chairman, John F. Mulcahey, district director of both of those departments.

Among the speakers were the Rev. George P. O'Connor, former state chaplain of the American Legion, the Rev. Dr. Carl Heath Kopf, Rabbi Joseph S. Shubow, former Asst. U. S. Atty. Charles A. Rome, Alexander Brin and women workers in the immigration and naturalization departments.

New Haven Offers 'Trip of Month'

Railroad enthusiasts and camera fans will be afforded an unusual treat next Sunday when the New Haven railroad operates a special junket, "The Trip of the Month," from Boston to New Haven, via Hartford.

The itinerary of the 311-mile round-trip will include inspection of electric locomotive equipment, a visit to Cedar Hill, near New Haven, where the party will have an opportunity to observe "hump operation" in the famous freight classification yard, and views of the engine house and inspection pits. The train will leave the South Station at 8:15 a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Enemy Aliens Seized In British School

ELGIN, Scotland, May 20 (AP)—Internment of five masters, one "guest" teacher and 11 pupils of Gordonstoun school near here was disclosed today as part of the government's roundup of enemy aliens.

The school was founded seven years ago by Dr. Kurt Hahn, a Rhodes scholar who came to Great Britain after Nazis had removed him as a head of a German school because they said he was non-Aryan. Hahn, a British citizen, was not interned.

2 Shot in Chicago Milk Strike Battle

CHICAGO, May 20 (INS)—Two men were shot and a dozen others slugged in one battle and several tank trucks carrying thousands of gallons of milk were overturned today as violence marked the opening of Chicago's second strike of milk wagon drivers within three weeks.

The shootings occurred near Volo, Ill., 30 miles northwest of Chicago, when pickets attempted to halt eight tank trucks being convoyed to the city from Wisconsin by 15 carloads of guards.

Wife of Medfield Suicide Is Hunted

MEDFIELD, May 20—Authorities today were trying to find Mrs. Harry Benson to tell her that her husband had shot himself to death after wishing her "good luck" in a note.

Police said they found the fruit stand operator's body at his home here after neighbors noticed Benson's ignition key in his car and the front door key on the outside.

Mrs. Benson had been away since Thursday, Police Chief Coleman Hogan said.

The note, found on a table near the body, read:

"Honey, dear I love you, dear. I am now gone. You asked for it. You got it. Goodbye my sweetheart and good luck. I sincerely hope from now on you'll be happy."

Benson was 44.

TYPICAL AMERICAN FAMILY MAY BE DISCOVERED IN HUB

What is the Typical American Family in Massachusetts? Broadly, it is an average, wholesome, typical unit of Massachusetts and American family life.

Nobody yet has any idea who will be picked as the Massachusetts Typical American Family to attend the New York World's Fair of 1940, with all expenses paid, including transportation, housing, entertainment and food.

Perhaps the Typical Family lives in Boston, perhaps in the Berkshires, perhaps on Cape Cod, or on the North Shore, or in Milford, or Hudson, or Lowell, or Northfield.

RULES ARE SIMPLE

At any rate, you can have a hand in designating the Typical American Family in Massachusetts now being sought in the exciting contest sponsored by the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser in cooperation with the World's Fair management.

Elsewhere in these columns are the simple rules of the contest. They are the only requirements for entering a family.

Before the winning family leaves for the Fair, making the round-trip free in one of the newest type Ford automobiles, driven by a Ford Motor Co. chauffeur, the members will be completely outfitted for the trip by Sears Roebuck & Co.

This concern has also completely furnished the two newly-built model FHA houses on the grounds of the World's Fair, in one of which houses the Typical American Family in Massachusetts will live during the week of July 22.

FOUR PRIZES

Every effort will be made to give them an enjoyable, personal vacation without cost to themselves, and in no way will the winning family be on exhibition.

Second prize: Free transportation, round-trip, between Boston and New York via New Haven Railroad; free admission to the Fair for three days; free entertainment and free guides—plus $40.

Third prize: Free transportation, via American Airlines; free admission for three days; free entertainment and guides—plus $30.

Fourth prize: Free transportation, via Eastern Steamship Lines, cabin and meals free; free admission to the Fair for three days; free entertainment and guides—plus $20.

Fifth prize: Free transportation, via New Haven Railroad between Boston and Providence, and Colonial Steamship Lines between Providence and New York; free cabin and means; plus free admission for three days, free entertainment, free guides and $20 cash.

FOLLOW THESE CONTEST RULES

1—The Typical American Family Competition, conducted by the Boston Sunday Advertiser and Boston Evening American, in co-operation with the New York World's Fair of 1940, is open only to citizens of the United States residing in Massachusetts.

2—The name and address of each family, with the number of children, boys and girls, must be submitted on the official entry form, together with a letter of not more than 300 words describing the family and explaining why it should be selected as the Typical American Family in Massachusetts. No photographs will be returned.

3—Entries will NOT be judged by the literary style or excellence of the letters submitted, but strictly on the qualifications and characteristics of the family.

4—A recent photograph or clear snapshot of the family must accompany the entry.

5—The entry of a candidate family may be submitted by a relative or friend, or by a member of the family.

6—Entries close on Saturday, June 15, at midnight. The completed form must be mailed or delivered to the Advertiser-American Typical American Family Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass., before that time.

7—The selection of the Typical Family will be made by a committee of distinguished Massachusetts men and women well qualified to establish the requirements of a Typical American Family, and the committee's decision will be final.

8—The parents and two children of the Typical Family selected, the eldest child to be not over 18, will be transported from Boston to the New York World's Fair and back by automobile, with all meals and hotel expenses paid. They will be entertained at the Fair for one week, beginning July 22, without any cost whatever to themselves. The Family, while at the Fair, will live for one week in a completely furnished house built inside the Fair Grounds in accordance with the standards set up for home construction by the Federal Housing Administration. The house accommodates four persons, and for this reason only four members of the Family selected may go to the Fair. The Family will have complete freedom of action as to what they want to do and see. They will, in fact, live each day as they would during any normal holiday period.

9—It is understood that entrants give permission to publish photographs and stories of their Family.

10—This competition is not open to employes of the Boston Sunday Advertiser-Boston Evening American, nor of other publications or advertising media.

Auto Death Victim Sought Film Career

HOLLYWOOD, May 20 (INS)—A young woman who was fatally injured by an automobile Friday was identified today as Eleanor Yeater, 25, a model from New Paris, Ind.

Miss Yeater had come to Hollywood to seek a career in pictures. She was run down by an automobile driven by Horace Bos, member of a wealthy restaurant family in Los Angeles, who was not held.

Methodist Fasting To Aid War Victims

Members of the Methodist Church will fast for at least one meal on Sunday, June 2, and give the equivalent of at least the cost of that meal for relief of civilian victims of Europe's war.

The General Conference of that denomination voted to make the day one of "self-denial, fasting and prayer for a just and lasting peace."

Bigelow Assails Widow Pension Backers

A drive was under way by Rep. Albert F. Bigelow of Brookline today to place on record the action of all congressmen on the recently passed Rankin bill, through which pensions were provided for widows and dependents of all veterans.

The pension is payable in the case of veterans who suffered no disability from their military or naval service.

Bigelow, chairman of the ways and means committee, blasted the pensions were provided for widows and dependents of all veterans.

In calling for a national campaign to defeat all members who voted for the measure, Bigelow said:

"Congress failed in its trust as representatives of the people and took from their pockets millions of dollars."

Red-Head's Temperature Zooms Up to 112 Degrees

CINCINNATI, O., May 20—A red-headed volcano girl who regularly bursts to a temperature of 112 degrees was described here today before the opening meeting of the American Psychiatric Association.

The temperature is believed to be the highest yet recorded in a human being and according to previous medical belief she should actually burn up and die. However, according to Dr. Esther B. Tietz of the Longview State Hospital, Cincinnati, she is normally a healthy, happy girl.

These attacks resemble the common conception of the rages of a redhead. The young, good looking girl becomes violent and uncooperative but a few hours later is calm and smiling.

Thus periodically the pituitary gland goes out of control and with sudden surges of hormone outpouring it causes the thyroid and parathyroid, adrenals, pancreas and ovaries to stimulate the heart, lungs, nerves and muscles to superfever activity. The heart races, the lungs pump violently, muscles twitch involuntarily, and the brain is thrown out of control.

RED CROSS' $300,000 DRIVE IS BEGUN HERE

The drive of the American Red Cross to raise $300,000 in Greater Boston for war relief was under way today with the first of week-long rallies to be held on Boston Common. The national goal of the organization is $10,000,000.

Mayor Tobin and Francois Briere, French consul, were scheduled to speak at Parkman bandstand in inaugurating the campaign here. Other speakers were listed as Fire Commissioner Reilly and J. W. Farley, chairman of the Boston drive.

Active solicitation of funds began with nine divisions of the campaign organization canvassing every professional, business and industrial field, as well as homes.

CARDINAL'S BACKING

The campaign was launched with the admonition from Cardinal O'Connell that "every good American will join in this excellent charitable endeavor."

"I heartily endorse the campaign of the American Red Cross War Relief Fund and I trust that every good American will join in this excellent charitable endeavor," he said.

"Millions of our fellow human beings overseas are in pitiable plight. Many of them have lost their homes and all earthly possessions while countless others face starvation and the inevitable sufferings and consequences of the horrible war now raging so fiercely in Europe.

LOVE OF NEIGHBOR

"The law of Christ is the law of love—love of God and love of our neighbor—and our neighbor is every human being in need of help. Our charity is well known throughout the world and I feel sure that the good people of this country will respond wholeheartedly and generously to this most worthy appeal which is made in the name of the destitute and suffering men, women and children of war-torn Europe."

Pansies From Seed

By T. W. LEGGETT

Pansy seed started now will make autumn flowering plants. Protected in autumn they will survive the winter and be bright with bloom next spring.

Sow the seeds in well drained boxes or pots of good soil and sharp sand in equal parts well mixed with it add a little peat moss made very fine

Water the soil and when it has drained, sow the seed thinly on the surface. Cover lightly with sand and press firmly with a flat board

Advising amateurs to cover pots or boxes of seedlings with glass is not always safe. They must be watched and the covering moved as soon as the seedlings [illegible] or the glass covering may cause the seedlings to be lost.

Seed does not require light to germinate, but as soon as the seedlings are above ground, light and air must be promptly supplied by removing the glass wholly or partially. Close, damp temperature will cause the seedlings to damp off. The object of the glass is simply to keep the soil moist so the seed will germinate properly. Cover the glass with brown paper to shut out light. If in doubt as to ability to take care of glass covered seedlings, omit it, but prevent the soil from drying out.

PANSY PLANTS

In preparing the beds for pansies take out the top soil which is usually about a foot deep. Throw in what would be a good big pailful of partially decayed dairy or stable manure to the square yard, and turn this under in the bottom soil.

With the upper foot of soil mix a liberal supply of gritty sand and throw it back in its place. Space the plants 10 inches apart, setting each so the lowest leaves will be on the surface. Firm the soil nicely working it well among the roots. When the plants begin to grow, pinch them back as required to prevent long, straggly growths.

Goodyear Announces Popular Price Tire

Announcement of a new Goodyear tire was made today by Paul Johnson, manager of the Goodyear Service Stores, who said that the new product, priced within reach of 70 per cent of the majority market of users, bears a lifetime guarantee without time or mileage limitations.

The new All-American tire has the same high-carbon, high-tensile steel wire for beads as used in all Goodyear passenger car tires, according to Manager Johnson, and "every possible economy has been effected to manufacture without sacrificing essential safety factors."

Congress to Block Defense Fund Graft

By ARTHUR HACHTEN

(Special to Boston Evening American)

WASHINGTON, May 20—Millions for defense but not one cent for graft and waste!

That slogan ran through Congress today as studies were made of expenditures for defense in the last few years and the huge outlays contemplated in pending legislation—upwards of $3,000,000,000.

While Senators Clark (D.) of Missouri, Capper (R.) of Kansas, Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts, Nye (R.) of North Dakota, and others clamored for creation of a special committee to devise a defense policy and to keep close tab on the administration, the House was alive with demands for checks to see that the billions about to be appropriated produce the sinews of war.

FIGURES ARE CITED

Rep. Stephen Bolles (R.) of Wisconsin, a member of the House committee on expenditures in the executive branch of the government, described a recent statement of the budget bureau on defense expenditures as amazing.

Bolles said:

"The statement is revealing. In 1937 the War Department spent $380,000,000. Of that, 2.5 per cent went for new equipment. In 1939 the War Department spent $462,000,000 and a paltry 1.66 per cent went into new equipment. In 1939 there was $455,000,000 to spend and this time, in face of war in Europe, five per cent only went into new equipment.

"There was a total of $1,237,000,000 in war funds in three years and 9.46 per cent was spent for new equipment to get ready for war. That was $117,020,000. That won't go far to outfit an army.

MUST FACE FACTS

"Therefore, when it comes to Garrand rifles, mobile artillery, machine guns and soldier outfits, I believe I am justified in my statement that if we got only $117,000,000 for new equipment out of $1,237,000,000, we cannot hope to get a greater percentage of new equipment out of what the President asks, unless there are a lot of changes in procedure.

"We might as well face the cold facts that to equip a real defensive army with anti-aircraft guns, mechanized artillery, coast defense, a real quartermaster's corps, ordnance and all other necessities, we shall spend before we are genuinely prepared up to $10,000,000,000.

"Let us hope we do not waste millions as in 1918."

SPEED PLANE PRODUCTION

"There is no longer time for us to enter this war successfully. Let us form, with our neighbors, a clear-cut and definite policy of American defense. But above all, let us stop this hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion that has been running rife these last few days.

"Regardless of who wins this war, there is no reason, aside from our own actions, to prevent a continuation of peaceful relations between America and the countries of Europe.

"If we desire peace, we need only stop asking for war. No one wishes to attack us and no one is in a position to do so."

Lindbergh, without naming the President or his estimate of air defense needs, declared:

"There is little use in discussing types and numbers of planes until a defense policy is established.

"If we are to defend the United States alone, then we must construct numerous air bases along the Mexican and Canadian borders," he explained. "Such a plan would require large numbers of small bombers and pursuit planes and eventually leave us as vulnerable to air attack as the nations of Europe are today.

SCORES MEDDLERS

"On the other hand, if we are to defend the entire western hemisphere, we need long-range bombers capable of attacking a hostile fleet a thousand miles or more at sea."

Of America's air defense, he said, it "is as simple as attack upon us is difficult, when the facts are faced." He declared:

"We are in danger of war today, not because European people have attempted to interfere with the internal affairs of America, but because American people have attempted to interfere with the internal affairs of Europe.

"It is true that bombing planes can be built with sufficient range to cross the Atlantic and return. But the cost is high, the target large and the military effectiveness small. The advantage lies with us, for great armies must still cross oceans by ship."

The unusual conference of airplane makers and federal officials was called in response to President Roosevelt's recommendation that production be increased to 50,000 planes a year and that the armed services acquire a total of 50,000 fighting aircraft.

ENGINES BIG PROBLEM

Secretary Morgenthau told reporters last night that obtaining sufficient engines was the principal difficulty in putting this program into effect.

"While the industry is working two or three shifts a day," he said, "it is not making enough engines."

PLIGHT NO BETTER, BUT BRITISH HOPE

LONDON, May 20 (AP)—An authoritative British spokesman today described conditions on the front as "pretty grim," saying that geographically the situation is no better and there is no use pretending it is.

He said that, morally, the situation was improved.

Pointing out that the advance at the beginning must be with the aggressor, the spokesman said it must be so especially with "an aggressor as efficient and ruthless as the Germans."

He said the base of the "bulge" driven into northern France by the Nazis had been widened slightly but was not much deeper, and that the general direction of movements at present was northwest.

French military authorities admitted the Germans had taken St. Quentin, 80 miles northeast of Paris, and were fighting in the region east of Cambrai, 25 miles farther north and only 70 miles from the channel port of Dunquerque.—Editor's note.

NEW BRITISH AIR RAIDS

British bombers, the Air Ministry announced, continued their raids on the Nazi rear last night "against enemy lines of communication in the south of Belgium and selected military objectives in western Germany."

German progress has been slow, the spokesman declared, and insisted there was "no reason to lose heart or courage."

The Belgians have been fighting magnificently, he said, and there has been no break through their lines. Liege and Namur, important railroad centers in Belgium, still are holding out, he declared.

But he admitted that there has been "some progress with resultant mixups"—places where the French were behind the Germans and others where the situation was reversed.

75'S STOP TANKS

The German mechanized forces no longer pack such a terrific punch, he said, and French 75's have proved "extraordinarily effective" at stopping the Nazis' huge tanks with the result that they have lost momentum.

Thousands of these famous guns, which can fire 25 times a minute when handled by a well-trained crew, have been rushed to defensive positions.

He said the arrival of French Gen. Maxime Weygand as commander-in-chief "has given everybody tremendous confidence."

British troops on the Allied left wing were retiring to conform to the shifting southern situation, he said, but no gap has been punched in the Allies' front.

"Every time the Germans have met our boys they have got a bloody nose," the spokesman said.

"They now have the greatest respect and caution for the British.

"Despite what the Germans might have said, we have not abandoned any material. Our boys are now getting used to bombing and are protecting themselves accordingly.

"We are not losing many men through these bombings now, but the noise is great and unpleasant."

The British, ready, in the words of Prime Minister Churchill, to "face, endure and retaliate against" the air might of Nazi Germany, concentrated their efforts at home on combating that power and its threat to the British Isles.

Stocks, Grains Move Higher

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—Stocks swung upward behind steels and aircrafts in today's market.

While volume was comparatively light, gains of $1 to $3 a share were well distributed.

Prominent in the initial swing were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Lockheed, Allied Chemical, American Can, duPont, Anaconda and Montgomery Ward.

Bonds were mixed, along with commodities. Cotton rallied briskly. "Free" sterling and the French franc firmed.

In Chicago, the emergency action of national grain exchanges in placing a limit below which futures prices could not go not only checked the recent collapse but resulted in a sharp rally today.

Chicago wheat prices soared as much as 6 cents above the minimum levels fixed by the board of trade.

German Marks Now Cash in Seized Nations

BERLIN, May 20 — Germany raised a 3,000,000,000-mark ($1,200,000,000) credit today to finance her armies in the newest authorized territories, authorized sources announced.

As in Poland, Norway and Denmark, the Reich introduced dual currency in the form of so-called Reich credit bank notes in Luxembourg, Belgium, Holland and German-held parts of France.

The Reichsbank announced exchange rates as follows:

Dutch gulden—1 mark 50.
Belgian franc—10 pfennigs.
French franc—5 pfennigs.
Luxembourg franc—10 pfenniga.

The day before the blitzkrieg, the Dutch gulden was quoted at 50.03 cents U. S. exchange, the Belgian franc at 16.70 cents and the French franc at 1.89½ cents. No quotation was made on Luxembourg money. Before the war the Germans held their mark to be worth around 46 cents U. S. exchange. There are 100 pfennigs in a mark.

Italy Still Weighs War; Ciano on Tour

ROME, May 20 (AP)—Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano is arranging to go to Albania—Italy's Balkan outpost—tomorrow as a sequel to his advice to Italians yesterday to be ready for a call from Premier Mussolini to gain the nation's aspirations.

Ciano, it was said, intends to inspect public works projects under way in Albania, which Italy occupied April 7, 1939, but his trip is bound to be watched closely because of Italy's military foothold in the Balkan Peninsula between Yugoslavia and Greece.

Italian schools were ordered to close May 31, a fortnight earlier than had been intended, but still there were no definite signs of imminent Italian entry into the European war.

Rumors that a mass meeting had been called for an important announcement by Mussolini were dispelled when authoritative quarters said that tonight's turnout in Piazza Venezia was to welcome a large Japanese delegation come to negotiatea new trade agreemnt.

Responsible Italians interpreted Ciano's Milan speech as a recapitulation of Italy's position—not a modification. They said it meant that Italy had claims she wants settled and that Italians were willing to go to war, if necessary, but if they can be settled without fighting so much the better.

Ciano's speech included an apparent reaffirmation of the durability of Italy's military alliance with Germany. It was he who negotiated Italy's part of the "pact of steel" a year ago. He declared yesterday that Italy "intends to keep faith in her engagements."

WEYGAND NOTED WAR STRATEGIST

History again was wielding the pen of melodrama in France today as General Maxime Weygand, at 73, took over the destinies of a desperately fighting Allied army.

For it was the diminutive Gen. Weygand whom France's immortal Foch had in mind as he uttered the famous words:

"When I am no longer here, call on Weygand if peril menaces France, and you can be tranquil."

HAS TWO REASONS

Back in the 15th century, French rulers, facing hopeless defeat, heeded the vision of a 17-year-old girl who turned a rout into victory, thus saving France. She was Joan of Arc, miracle performer.

Gen. Weygand, described as a thinking type of fighting man, was not facing a miracle, but he has two reasons for wanting to whip Hitler.

By adoption, he is French, by birth Belgian, a native of Brussels which was sacked by the Nazis.

During War No. 1, Weygand was known as Foch's shadow and encyclopedia. At French headquarters the by-word then was: "See Weygand about this."

Foch consulted him often because of his amazing memory and mastery of detail, which combined with his strength of character and initiative, made him an ideal staff officer.

When the Russians were knocking at the gates of Warsaw, Josef Pilsudski, the Polish marshal, wired the French war office:

"Send us Foch or we perish."

Foch told the French minister of war:

"Send them Weygand. He will do just as well as I would."

USED OWN STRATEGY

Once there, Weygand found Polish strategy not to his liking. He initiated a counter stroke which was regarded as one of the finest examples of generalship in modern times.

Weygand showed early promise as a military man after his graduation from Saint-Cyr, France's West Point, at the age of 20. Assigned as a second lieutenant in the 14th Dragoons, he soon became a military instructor and later was appointed chief instructor to the military school of Saumur.

But when the World War started he was only second-in-command of a cavalry regiment in Foch's corps. When Foch took command of an army on the eve of the Battle of the Marne, he picked Weygand as chief of staff.

Serving on the Yser, in the Artois and during the battle of the Somme, Weygand, a brigadier-general and brevet-major-general in 1917, accompanied Foch to Italy and helped plan the Allied resistance there.

50,000 SWEDE HOME GUARD

STOCKHOLM, May 20 (AP)—Sweden, determined not to be caught unprepared by the war, pushed plans for a special home guard of 50,000 men whose major duty would be to spot and track down parachute troops.

army corps, composed of at least 60,000 men, led the assault in the St. Quentin sector.

Allied warplanes bombed lines of communication on which the enemy tanks and armored cars depended for vital gasoline supplies.

Allied bombing planes also were active over northern Germany, where they attempted to destroy great oil depots at Bremen and Hamburg over the weekend.

They declared the operations were successful, but the Germans reported damage was slight and that civilians were the chief sufferers. Eighteen persons, mostly women and children, were said to have died in one of the raids.

On the Belgian front the Germans said they were advancing west from Antwerp and Brussels, but the British maintained their lines in this sector still held.

The British admiralty, in a brief communique, announced the destroyer Whitley had been damaged by German bombers and beached, with the loss of four men. The site of the action was not indicated.

ENGLAND SPEEDS WAR

England sought to step up production in her war industries and build up her defense against invasion.

An assertion yesterday by Prime Minister Churchill that considerations of private property would not be permitted to interfere with the nation's war effort was taken as an indication that the government might assume control of a large number of factories producing war materials.

Approximately 8000 children, who had been removed to southeastern coastal provinces in England at the beginning of the war were transferred to Wales for greater safety in event of air raids.

Italy's future policy, a source of anxiety to the Allies, remained undetermined.

Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, in an address in Milan, asserted Italy "intends to keep faith in her engagements"—presumably a reference to her mutual assistance pact with Germany.

He expressed confidence Italians would respond enthusiastically "if and when" Mussolini gives the word.

Another British Destroyer Beached

LONDON, May 20 (INS)—The British destroyer Whitley has been damaged by bombs and beached, the Admiralty announced today.

Four casualties were incurred the announcement said.

Although the Admiralty listed the vessel as a destroyer, Jane's fighting ships identifies it as an ex-destroyer now in service as an escort vessel. The Whitley, built in 1918, had a displacement of 1100 tons and a speed of 25 knots.

Lindy Flight Date Unnoticed by Paris

PARIS, May 20 (AP)—The 13th anniversary of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's take-off on his non-stop flight across the Atlantic passed unnoticed in the morning press of war-time Paris today.

No plans were made for official celebration either of this date or of his arrival at Le Bourget airport on May 21.

Red Cross Plans Daily Rallies

Daily noon rallies were inaugurated today on Boston Common by the American Red Cross for its war relief fund.

The goal of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter is $300,000.

Governor Saltonstall will speak tomorrow and others scheduled to speak during the week enclude the Rev. Michael J. Ahern, S. J., of Boston College; Fire Commissioner Arthur William Reilly and William E. Chamberlain, director of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter.

The fire department band will offer selections at each rally.

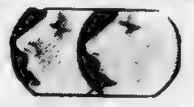
New Troops Rushed To Yugoslav Border

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 20 (INS)—New Yugoslav troop battalions were being placed on frontiers facing Italy and Germany today as the Italian anti-Allied press campaign continued unabated.

Yugoslavian aircraft forces were removed to the interior of the country, out of the way of any possible Italian or German onslaught. Belgrade was said to be feeling considerable tension resulting from Italian and German press barrages against Yugoslavia.

WIPE AWAY dirt, pore secretions, and old cosmetics that cause BLACKHEADS and OPEN PORES



New Soy Cream Refines Skin

Thousands of women who formerly were miserable over a skin spoiled by blackheads, large pores and other skin surface blemishes, now applaud a new beautifier called NYCE, because it is so remarkably nice to the skin.

This new and different preparation contains soy bean extract and other natural oils that penetrate into the mouths of the pores, loosen the grime and waxy secretions that cause blackheads, and thus helps to prevent blackheads from forming.

When NYCE frees the pores from disfiguring dirt and secretions, these pores can return to normal size and the skin resumes its natural, clean appearance. It becomes soft and smooth to the touch. NYCE helps to prevent dryness, tightness and roughness—which may cause ugly premature wrinkles and the withered look of age.

Prove to yourself beyond a doubt that you can have a skin free from ugly blackheads, enlarged pores, and other external skin blemishes. Try NYCE—use it as a night cleanser and as a daytime powder base. Thus for 24 hours a day, NYCE aids your skin . . . helps to keep it FRESH and protects it against complexion faults that make the skin look dull, old and lifeless. Every application is beneficial. Don't wait, NYCE costs only 55c a jar. Mail orders filled.

If You Get Up Nights How Are Your Kidneys?

Most people never think of their Kidneys although these vital organs contain about 9 million tiny tubes and work night and day cleaning and filtering excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. Because they never get a real rest it's easy to see that as you grow older the Kidneys may get tired and slow down. These excess acids and wastes may accumulate and poison your system because of functional rather than organic or systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles. So if you have to get up nights, or suffer from burning, scanty or frequent passages, backaches and groin pains, due to non-organic and non-systemic Kidney or Bladder weakness, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex. Over ten million packages of Cystex have been sold in 73 countries and have given such joyous, happy relief to so many thousands of people that it is now sold under a positive guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory to you. Cystex now costs only 35c at druggists and the guarantee protects you.

PARIS PUSH EASED; NAZIS HEAD WEST

PARIS, May 20 (AP)—A war ministry spokesman acknowledged today the Germans were in St. Quentin, bloody battleground of the World War, but said see-saw fighting left the fate of the city—80 miles northeast of Paris—still in doubt.

The German high command said yesterday that St. Quentin was then in German hands.—Editor's note.

The situation there is confused, the spokesman said, with charges and counter-charges between French and German columns of tanks.

"Fighting was particularly heavy in the western suburbs of St. Quentin yesterday," he added.

The French also faced an enemy "push" north of St. Quentin. Military advices said an extreme advance German motorcycle squad reached Peronne—15 miles northwest of St. Quentin—yesterday but withdrew at nightfall to avoid being cut off.

ATTACK ON CAMBRAI

Peronne was the westernmost point reached by a Nazi force in the drive toward the channel ports.

The spokesman reported other German columns attacking heavily east of Cambrai, which is 25 miles north of St. Quentin.

As military experts judged the situation, the Germans may attempt to continue west from the Cambrai sector to reach the sea—Dunquerque, on the channel, is only 70 miles north—and thus cut French liaison with the Allied forces still retiring in orderly fashion in Belgium.

At the same time, they said, the enemy columns, having reached St Quentin, may try to roll southwest down the valley of the Oise toward Paris.

37-MILE MELEE

The French fought throughout the Cambrai region and the surging, swirling struggle began again at dawn today.

Military authorities said the greatest melee existed in the region between La Fere, about 12 miles south of St. Quentin, and Landrecies, about 25 miles north of that city.

Steel met steel in this see-saw battle in which the Germans have continued to advance with the aid of four or five armored divisions. The situation, said the war ministry spokesman, "continues grave."

At Montmedy, some 20 miles southeast of Sedan, at the hinge of the main Maginoa and Little Maginot lines, German infantry came over in two massive attacks on the main Maginot fortifications after very heavy artillery preparation.

The French were said to have thrown them back, causing enormous losses, at the Montmedy bridgehead over the Chiers river.

PLANES OVER PARIS

But the enemy succeeded in capturing a small advanced casemate, it was said, and imprisoned the French who manned it.

This attack was interpreted as a diversion to the flank of the general drive toward the west.

In the Paris region the drone of airplane motors was heard this morning, followed by gunfire, but there were no immediate reports of "incidents."

News of the German crossing of the Aisne river was followed by announcement of the dismissal of the prefect of Aisne department.

Paris newspapers were ordered to reduce from four to two pages starting tomorrow as a measure of wartime economy.

WITNESS TELLS OF BLITZKRIEG

while the foe is in utter confusion.

SUBSTITUTE BRIDGES

After these mobile forces have routed the enemy, the main army is ready to move in.

We had one glimpse of Germany's extreme preparedness when we saw with what speed bridges are replaced

The fact is that Germany's army engineers have exactly-fitting substitute bridges ready for every strategic river or canal crossing in Belgium or France likely to be dynamited or otherwise damaged.

German reinforcement cars bring all this ready-made equipment with them on wheels in the motorized vanguard.

Another indication of preparedness in every detail came to us when in our 400-mile drive from Berlin to the last German frontier station we passed through Munster, in Westphalia, the scene of the signing of the Westphalian peace treaty in 1648 which brought to an end the Thirty Years' War.

ANOTHER MUNSTER PACT?

Hitler already seems determined that if he forces England and France to their knees he will make their representatives come to Munster's picturesque and ancient hall to sign on the dotted line.

In other words, Hitler is not content now with wiping out the last vestiges of the Versailles treaty.

His mind goes back to 1648 when the Germany of the Holy Roman Empire was broken up into principalities and powerless miniature states.

To rectify that mistake he is reported to have chosen Munster symbolically for the peace conference.

How completely the air force dominates the situation was apparent to us during the cross-country drive.

Long columns of anti-aircraft guns, cannon, air force supply cars and gasoline vehicles were moving with unabating regularity toward the actual operations area.

GUARD AGAINST FLIERS

If any column called for a short rest, two anti-aircraft guns were mounted immediately and the sharpest lookout kept for any possible enemy.

With the exception of these moving motorized columns and the fact that we saw men in uniforms, in cities large and small through which we passed, there was nothing indicating the mad holocaust only a relatively short distance away.

Germany seemed at peace and even the Polish prisoners working in the fields seemed like harbingers of peace.

Not so at night, however.

All along the western German fringe through which our car passed people told us how night after night they must go to air raid protection cellers as a precautionary measure.

They claimed that only a little damage has been done but, they said, it is annoying to have one's sleep broken.

WHERE IS HITLER?

We hardly reached our hotel on the German border when we, too, learned what it means to drop everything and run for cover as warning sirens resounded. It proved to be a false alarm, however.

"Where is Hitler?" was one of the first questions we asked.

Each officer or private asked that question would tell us he saw the Fuehrer some time or other in the past week.

Naturally his whereabouts at any given moment is a closely guarded secret.

Blitz Is Losing Its Early Punch

side world as well as Hitler to underestimate it.

In other words, it is the authoritative view of best non-French observers here that the first days of extreme anxiety abroad about the possibility of Hitler making this a real blitzkrieg and winning the war this summer were unjustified.

The next 48 hours may be decisive for the fate of his drive, and if once the Germans are stopped the Allied hope is that Hitler may prove to have shot his bolt, used his gasoline, exhausted his troops, brought death to hundreds of thousands of Germans and diminished the Nazis' hitherto invincible confidence in victory.

'More Babies' Is Nazi Plea

BERLIN, May 20 (AP)—Minister of the Interior William Frick, in a Mother's Day radio address urged German women to have more babies.

"We have allotted the German people gigantic tasks in the middle European area," he said.

"Possibilities have been reopened which cannot be exhausted in centuries. We will be able to exploit these possibilities only if we have enough persons capable of doing so.

"To assist young couples, 1,445,843 marriage loans, worth 1,300,000,000 marks (nominally about $520,000,000), have been granted by the state."

PRESIDENT BACK ON JOB

WASHINGTON, May 20 (INS)—President Roosevelt cut short his weekend cruise on the Potomac river and returned to the White House to scan latest reports from the European war and plan for conferences today on the National Defense program.

Boy, 11, Under Fire, Tries to Be a Hero

By H. TAYLOR HENRY

PARIS, May 20 (AP)—This is the story of 11-year-old Charles Ferrand, who stubbed his toe on a rock and "bandaged it big" so everyone would think he had been machine-gunned by the Germans like his little sister.

I met Charles at a Belgian village near the French frontier in the foothills of the Ardennes mountains, with a group of other peasants from his little village.

Charles was just a grubby, bare footed youngster who couldn't beat to have anything happen to little sister that hadn't happened to him.

I opened the conversation with a bar of chocolate, and after that we were firm friends.

"Aw, you know," he said (in the French equivalent, of course). "I didn't really get machine-gunned. Nothing ever happens to me."

"Nothing"—except that he had seen his native village burned.

"Nothing"—except that his group had been bombed and machine gunned by German planes three times in a four-day march.

"Nothing"—except that he had seen 12 peasants from his village killed by an attack in which his 8-year-old sister, Marie, suffered an arm wound.

I looked meaningly at his big toe.

"Well," he said with a blush, "that wasn't bit.

"Sister was getting all the attention, so when I stubbed my toe, I just bandaged it big so people would think I had been shot, too."

GAY REVUES AT BLINSTRUB'S AND CAPPY'S

EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, MAY 20, 1940

By SAM BERENSON

This shall be no black-bordered column on the demise of Swing . . . for Swing, slick and top-hatted, is just as hale today as when it wore a checkered vest and was called Jazz some 30 years ago. We doubt if the obituary of such rhythm will ever be written; for this is American music—as native as a Maine potato.

Nevertheless, for the time being at any rate, the public is beginning to weary of the polished manner of Mr. Swing and, more and more, restaurants and clubs and roof gardens are resounding with the slower melody of the Waltz. And, strangely enough, those self-same jive-crews which swung to fame with the torrid tempo of its music making are now in the forefront of classier Waltz groups. Cab Calloway, who has never been known as a purveyor of sentimental tunes, yet was able to stop the last Southland shows with his magnificent three-four arrangements. Similarly, Red Nichols and Bob Crosby are finding the public equally as responsive to their Waltz numbers as ever it was to their hotter licks.

The Conga, too, is finding an equally popular spot in the nation's favor; and those niteries throughout the East which feature this type of Latin rhythm are finding a noteworthy clicking of the turnstiles.

Lou Walters' current follies at the Latin Quarter is proving itself to be one of the gayest and most enticing revues ever to hit this appealing rendezvous . . . gorgeous dollies, brilliant costumes, and extremely different routines make this oasis one of your must list . . . Benny Goodman returns to Chicago, not only to beguile the Windy City with his swing-making but also to be clarinet soloist for a pair of symphonic waxings . . . Better tread cautiously at the Hotel Westminster's Blue Room . . . for heading the entertainment menu this week are the "Mystics," a mind-reading act that is one of the cleverest ever to hit the Rialto .

Mayfair patrons, too, are not without their opportunity to dine and dance beneath the stars, for this smart club also sports a sliding ceiling . . . it's an exceptionally fine revue this week, featuring some of the Rialto's loveliest and most colorful acts; and the new band boss, Lew Vonick, will be on hand with his gal singer, Joyce Lane.

The Rialto saw two slick openings last week, both important after-dark affairs, both well attended by the populace . . . For Monty Proser's Beachcomber had its latch-lifting, and the Ritz Roof was staging its summer debut . . . The first named is a new-comer to this village but we predict that the Latin rhythm, South American entertainment, and exotic tropic foods—all in the zombie manner—will make this spot one of the most popular of the come-dusk resorts . . . its Vincent Bragale coming in for a swell hand for his atmospheric tune-spinning . . . And the swank Ritz was equally well attended with one of the season's largest crowds turning out to lend an ear to Ruby Newman's downbeat . . Ruby makes the Ritz Roof more pleasant for a pair of weeks, then comes Enric Madriguera . . . Billy Rose just can't do it wrong . . . his first week's gross at the Diamond Horseshoe was over $23,000—about $10,000 better than any other Manhattan spot can currently raise . . The First Boston Forum on Vitamins will be held in the Copley Plaza on May 27. This outstanding event should be of real interest

Kitty Brando's is clicking in marvelous fashion . . . relatively a new spot to this village but already rated as one of the top-notch clubs of the town, Kitty's provides as much glamour and big-time floor revues as can be found hereabouts . . . a delightful rendezvous with the commendable melody-spinning of the Joe Candullo orchestra . . In spite of the nasty weather the World's Fair got off to a swell start, something like 200,000 pouring in on opening day . . . Jack Brown's Casa Manana rates our posey for the uniformly top-flight brand of floor offering that has been such a feature here all season . . . the oasis combines name talent and smart entertainment in a delightful setting, and this unfailing policy has been spelling greater and greater success for Jack's atmospheric salon . . . My Solution for Puzzle No. 85 Is: _____

My Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____

The answer to this puzzle, together with your solutions to the five other Rebus Puzzles appearing from Mon. May 20, to Sat. May 25, inclusive, should be brought or mailed to the Rebus Editor Boston Record American P. O. Box 2058 before Midnight Sat., June 1, together with 10c in coin to return to you postage, contestant will receive a new set of puzzles at the close of the contest.

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employees of the Boston Record, the Boston Americano and the Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus Puzzle will be published each week-day in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, c o the Boston Record American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes. To those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary, a second, third, or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance, in the offices of the Boston Record or the Boston American in one of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual fee will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual fee will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Ronald Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering the contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the contestant.

CANADA PROVING GROUND FOR BRITAIN'S GIANT AIR PLAN

Training Of Pilots Speeded

By AUSTEN LAKE

Passed by the Canadian Board of Censors.

OTTAWA, Ontario, May 20—The mood of Canada's Parliament is solemn! The great, Gothic buildings within the grassy quadrangle on Wellington st. are solemn too—rough-cut, granite piles with time-greened copper rooves. But there is nothing solemn about the carillons which play each noon hour in the Memorial Tower. Their cheerful, tinkling harmonies go echoing over surrounding chimney pots.

In normal times the three sister buildings were ample for Parliament's needs. Within their walls were housed such prosaic bureaus as Fisheries, Trades, Forests, Railways, etc. The Senate and House occupy the ears of the main building and various little punctilio hideaways honeycomb their halls.

War has changed all that! Now Canada's many emergency bureaus, missions and boards have scattered all over the city like seeds from a bursted thistle pod, wherever there is a downtown loft, or apartment or store. A flimsy partition, some desks and the bare needs of office furniture is enough. Canada's wartime auxiliaries are roughing it!

So the offices of James S. Duncan, who bears the breath-taking title of Deputy Minister of National Defense in charge of Aviation, is camped in a bottleneck street, high in the Jackson Building. Around his nest of offices are private firms, an insurance agency, an export company, a medical clinic. Yet there, overlooking the rugged outline of the city and the silver thread of the Ottawa river, is the pulse of Canada's vast air project and the possible focus of Allied war hope.

The United Kingdom has commissioned Canada to furnish its future air needs and it is James Duncan's job to shape and co-ordinate a $600,000,000 Empire training program which, within three years, will make Canada a network of flying fields.

AIR SCHOOLROOM

England, Australia, New Zealand and the Dominion will began centering its apprentice pilots here this summer—perhaps twenty or twenty-five thousand each year and by late autumn Duncan expects to be graduating steady streams of squadrons to the battle front—if, as critics of the plan scoff, there is any battle front by that time.

Today as I sat with Mr. Duncan he described the largest single war project in history. Dark-haired, lean and keenly-analytical, he had been drafted scarcely six weeks ago from a large farm machine corporation of which he was executive head—one of thousands of Canadian business leaders who have been called to run this end of the war. So Duncan literally beat his plowshares into swords and took charge of the Empire's biggest war business. He is making Canada the Empire's air schoolroom.

"I want to help you visualize the scope of this organization, so I'll give you a list of some of the units which go into its makeup."

There are, already established, four regional points of training command at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Regina with the co-ordinating center at Ottawa. Either complete or in process are 20 R. C. A. F. recruiting stations, 26 elementary flying schools, 16 service flying schools, 10 observers schools, 10 bombing and gunnery schools, 2 air navigation schools, 4 wireless schools, 4 repair depots, 4 equipment depots, 2 manning depots and various other technical training units, air armament schools and central flying schools.

"The term 'school' is misleading," said Mr. Duncan. "The flying centers are actually air universities, each comprising three aerodromes situated from five to twenty-five miles apart with landing strips 3000 feet long and 700 feet wide. Each will have 45 acres of building area, 38 buildings including five hangars and a practice bombing range of 66 yards radius."

It is, or will be, an intricate web of lethal aeronautics which, if the war is won and Canada returns to normal life, can be converted into a national civil air system equal to any in the world. But that, at the moment, lies in a very foggy future.

110 FORMATIONS

"In all," said Mr. Duncan, "we are providing approximately for 110 formations and units scattered geographically from British Columbia to Nova Scotia. In full operation it will require more than 40,000 officers, airmen and civilians to man the various schools and centers."

Notably, last Thursday, Parliament authorized expansion of the immediate air force to 2500 officers and 41,000 men, of which an unannounced part already are commissioned and enlisted. But Mr. Duncan explained that most of these are in training to train the students, "a reason," he said, "that Canada has not transported many pilots and ships overseas, as it did immediately in the previous world war." (The 110th Toronto squadron of about 30 pilots is the only Canadian unit as yet overseas).

The plan is England's, conceived in pre-war time, when Britain's air hierarchy selected Canada "because of its open spaces, its clear climate and its airminded youth." And the plan called for three phases, (1) elementary training at home; in Australia, New Zealand, England and Canada, (2) a 28 to 32 weeks semester in Canadian flying schools, and (3) graduation to the French combat area.

But emergency may speed the plan! For today beyond the seas comes England's insistent voice, "Hurry! Hurry!" lest the fruition of its air dream comes too late. The days of stalemate on the Maginot line when time seemed an invisible ally, is past. Members of the Canadian Parliament are saying, "The time is NOW!"

SCHOOLS GALORE

"How far have you progressed with the building?" I asked Mr. Duncan. He drew another typed list from a brief case. "The training command headquarters are complete. In Toronto we have an initial training school, an A. I. D. inspectors' school and a manning depot.

"In Trenton there is an air armament school, a central flying school, an air navigation school, a repair depot and a school of aeronautical engineering. At Winnipeg we have an equipment school and a training headquarters.

"At Camp Borden a service flying school, at St. Thomas a technical training, an equipment and an accounting school. Additional units are being put into weekly commission throughout the country and in addition 20 recruiting stations are functioning. We are abreast of the plan's schedule in every department."

Total cost of the plan, of which I learned before leaving the United States, Washington has an almost identical sister-plan in case of war, will approximate $600,000,000, of which Canada's share will be $350,000,000, to March 31, 1943, when the agreement terminates. "It's Canada's major contribution to the war," said Mr. Duncan.

"England, as her part of the undertaking, has agreed to supply a large share of the aircraft including engines and spare parts. Light aircraft for elementary training and a portion of other aircraft will be manufactured or assembled in Canada and, since we have no means of manufacturing engines, these will come from the United States and England."

In an adjoining suite, painted sky-blue and decorated with the official Canadian air - flag (Union-jack in the left-upper corner and a cockade on a light-blue field) sits Canada's greatest living legend — Air Marshall Billy Bishop. Sandy haired, stout and florid now, he Ace who brought down 72 German planes in the previous World War, is "pep-master" and overseer or "air tradition" in the Empire plan. On the walls are many of his old combat maps, framed squares in typographical colorings. "Lovely aren't they?" he said with genuine affection.

R. C. A. F. SYMBOL

It is hard to reconcile Billy Bishop, now 46 and resembling blond Santa Claus, with the destroying angle of the Royal Air Force in 1914-18. Yet frequently the bland blueness of his eye turns to a cold scrutinizing blaze. You sense the old killer then, behind the jolly mask. Though he wears the title of "Officer in charge of air recruiting" he is more actually the "spiritual coordinator" and "living symbol" of the R. C. A. F. tradition than a former-of-policy, making a steady round of the flying fields and talking with incoming youth or pushing his fast little flagship cross country to keep speaking engagements.

Are many Americans applying for Canadian airforce commissions? "Yes," said Bishop, "a great many and we welcome them." There are at least three in the Flying School outside Ottawa, perhaps many more in other centres.

"We've been inundated with applications," said Bishop. "I've even had letters from mothers, demanding indignantly to know why their sons, ready to give their lives, haven't been admitted. As fast as we have places we will accept them."

He fell readily into reminiscence!

"When I first started flying in 1914 I had an old RE-7 with a ceiling limit of 6000 feet and a ground speed of 60 m. p. h.—think of it! My fastest ship was an SE-5, in which I did most of my fighting, and that had a maximum speed of 130 miles and mounted two machine guns. But today! Ships with ten or more guns flying at 450 miles, armoured in the vital parts. Boy! My old Nieuport Scout would look like a flying hen-coop now!"

150 HOURS

He always told the student pilots, he said, that the worst moment—the interval of apprehension; came just before maneuvering into position for a fight. Once in action, he said, a deadly calm chilled the nerves. There was no sensation of fear, nature's narcotics lulled the senses.

"The Empire Plan," he says, "calls for 150 hours of training in the air before the recruit is sent over to join the Group Pool (replacement center) as a fighter or bomber pilot. In previous war the average flying experience of a pilot before fighting was only twenty-five hours. In my own case I was night flying in the mouth of the Thames with only 15 hours of solo work—looking for Zeps, which, Thank God! never came my way. In fact my whole total flying time at the end of the war was only about 400 hours.

"It is clear, therefore, that this crop of boys, with 150 to 200 hours flying experience before they see their first burst of shrapnel or their first Messerschmidtl, will be perfectly fitted."

But Canadians are impatient—suddenly and increasingly so. Parliament and the press are saying in an insistent, cricket rhythm, "The Time Is NOW!" It may have effect! For army nerves, like political nerves, are sensitive to public demand. And England, defying Canadian war policy from the other end of a telephone line, may soon say, "The Time Is NOW!" too.

Meanwhile what the Empire Air Plan aims at is a peak output of 7000 pilots and 12,000 air observers, gunners and technicians each year and in addition a Canadian home establishment that will be the largest air university in the world.

MAYOR TOBIN, announcing his traffic program for the year, defines as "very praiseworthy" the Boston Evening American's campaign to have pedestrian safety lanes painted at all important street intersections.

Moreover, the Mayor pledges himself to support the campaign with ACTION.

A CROSSING TRAGEDY
Pedestrian Safety Lanes Reduce Such Mishaps

He promises ninety miles of white lines at more than 500 crossings.

Also, he advocates safety islands for particularly hazardous areas, especially along Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, and in East Boston.

No one can fail to support Mr. Tobin in this most commendable effort.

He is rightly using the authority of his office for the protection of every person, man, woman or child who lives in or visits Boston.

For, as we have many times observed in the past, EVERYBODY IS A PEDESTRIAN.

An individual may be the fortunate one person in three who owns and operates an automobile.

He may ride to his place of employment in a railroad train, street car or bus.

He may use the "El" or subway to go to school, church and the movies.

He may enjoy the luxury and speed of the aeroplane on long trips.

But his pedestrian status is unaffected.

Somewhere along the line, no matter how he travels or where he goes, he is usually obliged to shift back to the foot method of locomotion.

That is when he is most likely to be numbered among the 12,500 persons who are killed annually in the nation's streets and highways.

That is when he may be struck down and injured, as more than 275,000 Americans were struck down and injured last year.

That is when ten dollars spent by the Mayor to paint a safety lane may save the pedestrian's life or prevent his being crippled painfully and often permanently.

THE NECESSARY WORK of marking crossings throughout Boston is of course still very much in the dream stage.

Mr. Tobin has given his word, and he is undoubtedly sincere.

Engineers have prepared elaborate blueprints.

A limited number of men have been assigned to the project.

It is generally admitted that economy cannot be an excuse for the presence of highway death traps.

And generally conceded that money appropriated for less desirable things can be re-appropriated for this most important activity.

But dreams, promises, blueprints, admissions and concessions are not sufficient in themselves to provide safety where there is no safety.

What Boston needs and must have is ACTION—the kind of remedial action that will mark ALL INTERSECTIONS AND CROSSINGS with wide white lines, between which our people will be able to walk with reasonable assurance of reaching the other side of the street alive.

AN OUTSTANDING EVENT in a year of many important happenings will be the June sixth convention of twenty-five thousand Yankee Division veterans.

While millions of men in Europe and Asia are locked in a struggle that can only mean death for scores of thousands, these men who know war and consequently hate it are preparing to meet here in PEACE.

All of them went to France nearly a quarter of a century ago and took active part in the conflict that was supposed to end aggression and its attendant bloodshed forever.

Now, scarcely more than a generation later, they see another war raging, quite as horrible and as disastrous as the one in which they participated.

We shall do well, all of us, to listen to the sound Americanism of the YD veterans.

Experience is a great teacher, and the men who served in the last war got plenty of that—even though the more or less thankless government and citizenry gave them little else.

On the Side

By E. V. DURLING

HAS THE census taker been to your house yet? They seem to be missing a lot of people. I think the Post Office Department could have taken the census better, quicker and cheaper . . . This country's Revolutionary War was fought against a kind of German dictator, George III, King of England, at that time had practically no English blood. He was nearly 100 per cent German . . . "A woman is always younger than a man of equal years," said Elizabeth Barrett Browning. Quite so. Right now the women of equal years look from 15 to 20 years younger than the men. Maybe the men should do something about it.

IN MAY, 1939, four months before the start of the current European war, Colonel Charles Lindbergh rated the strength of the air forces as follows: 1, German; 2, Britain-France combined; 3, Italy; 4, Russia. And for this he was severely criticized. Is the conflict abroad vindicating his estimate? . . . The average housewife, homemaker or domestician walks about 13 miles a day around her home. However, the exception is the woman whose home is well planned. She walks a much shorter distance.

COULD SOMETHING be done to make the growing of a third set of teeth possible? I wouldn't be surprised. Take Yang Chao-Sen, Chinese artist, now 103 years old. He says at 96 he lost his second teeth and at 98 a third set started to grow . . . "When I was a student in Minnesota," writes a client, "my landlady often served strawberry shortcake and coffee for breakfast." Sounds like a very good idea to me. I was unable to put it over at our house.

"Does Current Conflict Vindicate Him?" Durling Asks

A HAT-CHECK GIRL strongly objects to my contention that hat-checking is a racket. She's pretty angry, too. Probably a red-head. Says she: "So a man could put his hat under his chair. Where would he put his overcoat which we check, too? I suppose you would wear your overcoat while eating, rather than let go of a thin dime." This girl's complaint should be addressed to her employer who pays her no salary. She says some days she works eight hours and makes only a dollar in tips. Hat-check girls should be paid salaries. Hat-checking should be free to patrons.

AS IS OFTEN repeated nowadays, "a politician thinks of the next election, a statesman of the next generation." How can we get rid of the politicians? In times like these a politician is almost as much of a menace as a Communist or Nazi Bund leader . . . "It was not Paul Robeson who introduced the song 'Ol' Man River'," writes a Detroiter. "It was Jules Bledsoe, and he sang it much better than Robeson does."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, May 20—There are two celebrations in New York City this coming week in which I think everybody should be interested.

Today, the women's division of the Jewish Education Association, known as Ivriah, gives their spring-time breakfast and presents a play: "A Child Shall Lead Them."

This organization has done fine constructive work in adult education projects for mothers who are in need of help in the care of their young children.

They also provide scholarships for many children, who would otherwise find life hard to face. Their work has been reflected in better general welfare of the groups which they touch.

THEN, on Thursday, the New York Zoological Society will hold its garden party for members.

I am one of the interested members who think to preserve beauty so near the crowded city streets, and to give an opportunity to young and old to study the various animals in surroundings nearly typical of their usual habitats, is something of real value.

I wish I could be present and that the interest of the public in this opportunity were greater.

On Friday afternoon, I received a group of ladies who were attending the convention of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

Saturday, the high school seniors from Arthurdale, West Virginia, lunched with me in the garden.

In the afternoon I attended a tea which was given to celebrate the publication of Mr. Bruce Melvin's book, 'Youth—Millions Too Many?'

This book is written by a man who has worked in the research division of the WPA on many questions affecting youth. It is, I think, a valuable contribution on this subject and should be read by those who have an interest in this problem.

Saturday morning, for the first time last week, I had a chance to ride and went to the stables to see a new horse which has just been presented to me by the Tennessee Walking Horse Association. He is a beautiful sorrel gelding, five years old, with a most kind and gentle expression. I hope I am going to have a great deal of pleasure getting acquainted with "Charlie" and riding him frequently when Washington duties are less heavy.

Sunday was a day of rest, but the anxiety which hangs over everybody seems to bring its quota of fatigue.

I notice that many with whom I come in contact these days seem to be exhausted more by the state of apprehension in which we are living than by the actual work we do.

MISHAP KEEPS BEEBE FROM PARTY

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, May 20—Vincent Astor has been interested, for a long time, in meeting Lucius Beebe, and Jerome Zerbe decided to arrange it. He invited Astor and Beebe to meet for cocktails at his apartment, on Tuesday . . . Without telling the others the reason for this party, Zerbe also invited Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett, Prince Serge Obolensky, Mrs. Jimmy Roosevelt and others. All the guests came, except Beebe—who had been hit by a taxi the previous evening. Lucius wired his regrets later: "Sorry, can't come. Extend my apologies to Mr. Vanderbilt."

BEAUTY DEPT.: Marion Mill, wife of Otto Ludwig Preminger, wants the use of the St. Regis Roof, for a party to raise funds for British relief. Last week, she secured Serge Obolensky's agreement to supply the Roof, rent-free . . . Marion accomplishes this by gathering in her room the most beautiful girls in town — Hilda Knight, Mona Maris, Frances Mercer, Valerie Cole, Geraldine Spreckles and Simon Simone—all of whom made a joint plea to the only man there, Prince Serge Obolensky.

SIMON SIMONE

HEALTH DEPT.: The Ross-Loos Clinic in Los Angeles, the largest clinic in this country, is the beneficiary of a new fund. The income from that fund will be used to pay for maternity cases involving indigent mothers, and the tuition for nurses who have had to discontinue their studies for lack of money . . . The donor of this fund is Edgar Bergen.

* * *

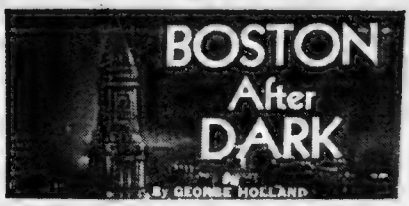
MOVIES DEPT.: George Gallup agreed to poll the American movie public as to whether they prefer double-feature programs, after a lengthy discussion about this with Sam Goldwyn . . . Goldwyn was in his most convincing and persuasive mood. For Gallup not only agreed to make that poll, but insisted upon one condition—that he, Gallup pay for the poll himself.

* * *

LOCAL NEWS: Mexico's Secretary of State is in Washington now, seeking help. Within the past few weeks, 17,000 German "tourists" have arrived in that country . . . Warden Lawes is being booked for a lecture tour in October . . . The Lunts have decided to run "There Shall Be No Night" straight through the summer and to forego their vacations.

* * *

PERSONALS: For the next two weeks Franchot Tone's companions will be the most talkative girls in town—girls who will supply all the conversation, the ordering of food and drinks, and even the instructions to cab-drivers. Either that, or else Tone's companion will be one girl, who can respond in silence, by a glance or a touch of the hand. For Franchot has an ailing throat, and the doctors have prescribed the Silent Treatment. He must not utter a word for two weeks.



MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: That dramatic breakdown of Sigrid Shultz, the Chicago newspaperwoman, as she tried to read her Sunday night broadcast from Berlin, was as exciting as any individual episode of the war . . . She had begun bravely enough . . . Her story was in the form of a review of Nazi exploits . . . She had been speaking less than a minute, and had reached a point in her yarn where she was saying that grandfathers in France remembered how Germany had conquered France at Sedan (in the War of 1870) . . . Then came a pause, and a sob . . . "I will now return you to America," the woman correspondent said hastily, and the broadcast ended . . . The announcer in New York covered up quickly, although it was obvious that he was startled.

THE STUDIO ANNOUNCER SAID: "You have been listening to Sigrid Shultz, correspondent for the Chicago Tribune, in a brief report from Berlin" . . . He emphasized "brief" . . . As the "dead air" was made partially alive by a transcription of studio music, newspapermen among the listeners were speculating as to what was happening in the German capital to the overwrought correspondent . . . Unless Miss Shultz had a very good alibi, on the score of unexpected ill-health or something very plausible, it is probable that the Chicago reporter faced a bad few hours.

ON THE RECEIVING end of the story, the impression was that Miss Shultz was so moved by emotion that she was unable to continue . . . As she was reporting nothing but news of German triumphs, Herr Goebbels and his men most certainly would have demanded an explanation . . . In the middle of a report of victories, from the German viewpoint—that was no time for a reporter to be choked off by her own heartache at the words she was reading.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Once the home of the "personal appearance" variety of vaudeville, the Metropolitan Theater is reported considering a resumption of the "flesh plus" policy . . . The Metropolitan kept a permanent ballet and presented Mary Pickford, John Boles, Wallace Beery, Bob Burns, Bing Crosby and a host of other stars, before it changed to an "all picture" policy . . . We hear that a deal has been made with the musicians union, and that the change-over will be made in June or September.

THE BIG GUN OF the annual Goodall golf tournament, held annually at Fresh Meadow, the Flushing, N. Y., golf club, is Elmer Ward, young Chestnut Hill tycoon of the clothing-mill industry . . . The New York sports writers refer to Elmer as the lad who "dressed up the golf game" . . . This is an accomplishment not heretofore attributed to Mr. Ward in the Boston district . . . Perhaps, then, it is well to borrow a few lines from the Gotham scribes and relay to the public the news that Elmer now plans to turn his attention to the sartorial side of the tennis-male tennists.

KITTY BRANDO'S SO-CALLED "KITTENS"—these being the chorus girls of the night spot bearing Kitty's name—were to swoop down on the famous Paddock Club of Suffolk Downs this afternoon . . . An anonymous benefactor, a lawyer, bestowed a twenty-dollar bill on Kitty Saturday night and instructed her to take the girls to the track.

GEORGE BRENT OUT OF DAVIS FILM

By Louella O. Parsons

George Brent

HOLLYWOOD, May 20—George Brent, who is always so amiable, and a lad who has never refused a toll handed him, is backing out of co-starring with Bette Davis in "The Letter." It isn't because he and Bette, who once were aflame, have cooled, but merely that he objected to playing a mere husband role which he felt did not give him a chance to act.

I had heard that Warners were suspending him, but George told me that he is still busy on "The Sentence," and, as he understood it, his bosses are delighted that he didn't want the role. "You, too," said George. "I hear they like Herbert Marshall, and he will do much better." Of course, Brent's accent is much more British than George's, who was born in the Emerald Isle. Every so often George unconsciously reverts to a brogue and that's one of his charms.

JUDY GARLAND

* * *

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Jackie Cooper's new girl friend is Jimmie Rogers, daughter of a Palm Springs business man; Henry Blanke's mother is on her way to America from Germany and Mrs. Blanke will leave for New York to meet her; Helen Mack and Pat Weaver, New York advertising man, are really aflame; Jon Hall is desperately ill with flu and has been threatened with pneumonia; a happy foursome at Ciro's were the Gary Coopers and Fred MacMurrays.

* * *

THERE is lots of chit-chat that Judith Barrett, now Mrs. Lin Howard, is also buying cradles. Judy Garland will be graduated from high school in three weeks and she will receive her diploma at a private presentation on the MGM lot; Carole Landis an every day visitor at the bedside of Willis Hunt, Jr., who is in the hospital for an operation; Ilona Massey and Alan Curtis have a seven-day-a-week date; Conrad Nagel's big moment is Bonnie Edwards, local beauty.

* * *

VICTOR MATURE is suffering from a throat infection; Douglass Montgomery and Ethel Butterworth a Sphinx Club twosome; Warner Brothers are talking with Maurice Evans, Shakespearean actor, for one of the male leads in "The Letter"; Judy Conova and Robert Lowry are that way; Warren Williams has invented a snake-proof platform for his trailer. He is on location at Tucson and he and other members of the "Arizona" company have been much bothered by rattlesnakes; Barbara Stanwyck and Bob Taylor celebrated their first wedding anniversary watching the Hollywood Stars.

* * *

THERE IS a rumor around our town that George Temple is planning to form a company in which to star his daughter, Shirley. Mrs. Temple denies that there is any truth in the story that her daughter will sign with David Selznick. She said Shirley will make one picture a year and that's all. The rest of the time she'll go to school.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

A lonely figure stood there in the half light. His eyes swept over the desolate scene, eyes in whose depths were reflected the sorrows of the world.

He saw the aftermath of the fierce battle which had raged there—the shell holes like festering sores on the face of the earth—the bodies of men twisted and torn—the heavy smell of blood.

ALL WAS still now, here on this field of death. He walked quietly among the bodies of the fallen. Here was one broken form reluctant to release his hold on life. Words came low from tortured lips. "Father in Heaven have mercy," was the dying prayer.

The Man of Sorrow bent to close the now sightless eyes and promised, "This day thou shalt be with me in Paradise."

He turned as the quiet of the early dawn was broken by the angry hum of warplanes that came out of the east with the rising sun.

The deep rumbling of the belching guns could be heard in the distance.

Men were again moving across the field, crouched low, guns held ready.

Men fell screaming and the sickening stench of freshly spilled blood mingled with the sharp smell of burnt powder.

HERE WAS ALL the horror of war. He watched this chaos; then, clasping pierced hands and raising compassion-filled eyes to the Heavens, His plea again echoed down through the centuries: "Father, Father forgive them, for they know not what they do."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

THEY'VE quarrelled bitterly, their marriage is breaking up. "What's the use of trying to go on?" sobs the young wife. "Our love can never be the same again, after the things we've said to each other. We might as well drop it all right now."

HE'S MADE a mess of things, wants to fade out. His friends are trying to persuade him to pull himself together, make a fresh start. But he can't see it. "It wouldn't work," he says. "Things have changed; there'd never be the same old kick in things—"

SHE'S OFFERED a new and bigger job across the country, but she's turning it down, staying in the position she's held for 15 years. "Perhaps I'm foolish," she says, "but I know I wouldn't be happy, 'way off from everyone. Things couldn't never be the same again."

THE LITTLE GIRL has died. The home that glowed with love and laughter stands cold and neglected. They might adopt another child—but, no. "We can't face it!" they wail. "It wouldn't be the same; not with our darling gone!"

"IT CAN NEVER be the same again!" . . . that thought has wasted more lives, blocked more growth, than all the epidemics put together.

Never the same again?" Of course it won't be! And why should you expect it to be?

Are YOU the same person you were seven years ago? You certainly are not. You'd yell the roof off if you were.

THINGS are "never the same" after that first bitter quarrel . . . that first grave mistake . . that first difficult adjustment, or racking grief? True, they're not.

But what of it? You've lost your first romantic illusions about each other, but you'll love all the more widely and wisely because of that loss if you have the spunk to face it and go on.

SHOPPING WITH

Dearest Anne,

Eureka! I've found the one remedy that will make you forget your troubles—get out and buy a new hat—or a new pair of shoes—or get a new hairdo—the Boston shops have so much to offer that you'll really get a lift by getting something NEW.

More Multi Color Shoes—$2

You haven't seen multi colors until you've seen them at Dunn's. Multi colors that are different—multi colors that are so gay and bright—they'll have you gasping. Colors that blend beautifully with whatever outfit you are wearing! Truly a sensation in COLOR. You can have them in wedgies or high heels, as you prefer. All sizes. DUNN'S is at 85 Summer St. Mail orders 15c extra.

Barefoot Sandals at Clyde's, $2

Here's the sandal that smart girls adore! It's light as a feather—and so good looking and comfortable that you'll never want to take them off. Wear them in the house, on the street—and later to the beach. In natural saddle leather with a low wedge heel. All sizes. Clyde's Shoe Store is at 435 Washington Street. Mail orders 15c extra.

Fur Coats Remodeled $17.50—Free Storage

By Jacques—that expert furrier. Complete your new wardrobe with one of these boleros, smart daytime and evening. Jacques will make a fur cape from your old fur coat for $7.50 (lining included). Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

DAME FASHION is fickle . . I guess that's why she is always referred to as a woman! . . .

Just when the apple blossoms are in full bloom, lilacs and lilies of the valley begin to shed their fragrance and everyone would like to pause and enjoy the lovely beauty of nature, the calendar of fashionable social activities has become so crowded that it seems like a continuous performance . . .

Outdoor affairs have not been left out of the busy week's activities, however . . . Out in Weston a group of women interested in adding to the coffers of the American Friends of France, Inc., are taking advantage of the apple blossom season by holding a daily treasure sale and luncheon in the orchard behind the House and Garden Shop . . . Articles for sale have been contributed by prominent women wishing to help the worthy cause, and are being arranged for display by Mrs. Georges Barrel, wife of the Swiss Consul, and Mrs. James K. Clement, co-chairman of the week's festival . . .

Chestnut Hill Garden Openings

GARDEN enthusiasts and Sunday drivers who have always wanted to take a peek behind the high brick wall and hedges which sield some of Chestnut Hill's most beautiful estates from the public eye, will have an opportunity to visit 13 lovely gardens in that vicinity tomorrow . . .

Under the auspices of the Chestnut Hill Garden Club, the garden gates will be thrown open to visitors, many of whom will start their tour with an informal box luncheon, to be served for a modest sum, under the trees on Mrs. Edwin S. Webster's spacious lawns . . .

Mrs. Richard Stetson and Mrs. St. John Morgan have been added to the group of friends helping to serve luncheon at Mrs. Webster's . . . and others performing this duty will be Mrs. William Jason Mixter, Mrs. George H. Crocker, Jr., Mrs. Edwin B. Dunphy, Mrs. Amos Breed, Mrs. Francis C. Hall and Mrs. Henry B. Prout, chairman of the luncheon committee . . .

Dinner to Precede City Club Meeting

ABOUT 200 members of the Women's City Club will attend an annual May get-together dinner party at the club this evening, preceding the annual meeting at which an executive committee will be chosen to elect a new president . . .

Head table guests will include the present club officers—Mrs. Alexander Steinert, president; Mrs. Phister Cowin, Mrs. Oliver Andrews, Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, vice-presidents; Dorothy Seccomb, secretary, and Adelaide Meserve, treasurer . . .

Guests will include Mrs. William Lloyd Garrison, Miss Jeannette McGregor, Miss Lavinia Sabine, Mrs. E. Winslow Ware, Mrs. Stanwood G. Wellington, Mrs. Lorenz Muther, Mrs. Robert Culbert, Mrs. Joseph A. Hall, and Mrs. Charles H. Ridlon . . .

Phyllis Motley Plans Bridal

A late summer wedding is being planned by vivacious Phyllis Motley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Motley of Milton, who has just become engaged to William Lawrence, 2nd, son of Rt. Rev. and Mrs. William Appleton Lawrence of Springfield.

The prospective bride graduated from Beaver Country Day School in 1935, made her debut the following season and belongs to the Junior League and Vincent Club. She is just completing her junior year at Sarah Lawrence College.

Cornelia Baker Engaged

Cornelia Baker, a debutante of the winter before last, has joined the ranks of brides-to-be with announcement of her engagement to James P. Baxter, 4th, of Williamstown.

The pretty blonde bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. Baker of Brookline, a graduate of the Winsor School and member of the Junior League and Vincent Club.

Mr. Baxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Baxter, 3d, is a member of the Junior class at Harvard where his clubs include Hasty Pudding-Institute of 1770, D. K. E. and Fly Clubs.

New Suits for the Beach

By ANNICE BRINK

THERE'S NOTHING quite so fascinating as the bathing suit section during the spring, when anticipation of summer and vacations runs high . . . and when you see the new fashions, you'll find them tremendously exciting.

White rayon jersey is Lamarr, Dietrich and glamour girl . . . all in one . . . particularly the dressmaker ensemble with instep length, hooded coat. The bathing suit has a longish flared skirt, a bra top, and a V-pointed midriff girdle of contrasting deep shades. Guaranteed to turn heads, because we can't think of an evening frock that could possibly be more becoming.

Amazing to be sure . . . is a ballerina suit . . . with a minute fluff of skirt, the blue stripes on white flared diagonally. The whole bra top and girdle is lastexed, and looks doll-size. When it's on, it moulds the figure to perfection.

Supremely smart for the heavier figure is a coral and white printed silk ensemble . . . with a reefer-type knee-length coat that looks exactly like the redingote of an important town suit! The bathing suit is very dressmakery.

You Can Be Beautiful

ON DISPLAY . . . the harmony or lack of it between your lips or fingertips is part of anyone's instant first impression of you . . . and even as Lana Turner's fingertips are unconsciously brought next to her lips . . . so are yours! Check up on your color-smartness . . . take advantage of the gift . . . actually . . . of a beautiful new lipstick with a grand nail enamel. Arline Gould tells about it today.

Nail Enamel Offer Near End

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S BEEN SAID that true chic is actually so independent of an enormous budget that more girl miss out on it through sheer "unthinkingness" than through any lack of smart-sense . . . You'll surely be one of those Munro-Leaf-ish half-asleep people if your overlook a "firstever" nail and lip tint gift special!

Now well on its merry way is the special with only about a ten-day interval to go . . . so get in your mail orders if you can't make the shopping trip itself. Because a generous half-size of lipstick, a new creation that has the latest scientific developments for beauty and indelibility featured in it . . . is being given away with each big vial of matching nail enamel, at the regular 60c price. You could have a stunning five-color make-up wardrobe for incredibly little cost!

With the several colors available you can make the least expensive beach outfit into a style coup . . . and be after the drama of your dinner dresses . . . for you may be sure that girls who buy original models as though they were copies use this selfsame lip and tint accent pair, because they recognize its fundamental unsurpassable claim to this.

Probably one of the nicest things we could say about the nail polish is the way it sticks with you . . . extremely pliable on the nail, it avoids much of the ordinary chipping.

If you're too far away to come in and see the colors for yourself, we can give you descriptive information with the correct names over the phone . . . and we'll include them in our letters . . . but hurry! Phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, including a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Quick Breads for Breakfast

By MARTHA LEE

MOST PEOPLE enjoy toast or rolls for everyday breakfasts but once or twice a week and particularly on Sunday morning, such quick breads as those for which the following recipes are given are popular:

BACON BISCUITS

2 cups sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
4 tbsp. shortening
½ cup diced cooked bacon
About 2-3 cup milk

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt, and work in shortening. Cold bacon fat makes a good shortening for these biscuits. Add diced bacon which has been cooked until crisp and brown. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn the dough onto a floured board, roll out to about half an inch in thickness and cut with a biscuit cutter. Bake in very hot oven 450 deg. until browned.

RICH MUFFINS

2 cups sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 to 4 tbsp. sugar
2 egg yolks (or 2 whole eggs)
1 cup milk
¼ cup melted shortening

Sift dry ingredients into bowl. Beat egg yolks (or eggs) until light, add milk and shortening and pour all at once over dry ingredients. Mix quickly, 20 to 30 seconds, and turn into hot, greased muffin pans. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in hot oven, 400 deg. F.

POPOVERS

2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup sifted flour
¼ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. melted butter

Beat eggs slightly, add milk, and combine with flour and salt. Beat with rotary egg beater for 2 minutes. Fill very hot greased custard cups or iron muffin pans 2-3 full. Bake for 30 minutes in very hot oven, 450 deg. F., then reduce temperature to moderate, 350 deg. F., and bake 15 minutes longer.

OATMEAL MUFFINS

2 cups rolled oats
1½ cups hot milk
¼ cup melted shortening
1-3 cup brown sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup sifted flour
½ tsp. salt
3 tsp. baking powder

Pour hot milk over rolled oats and let stand until cold. Add shortening, brown sugar, beaten egg, and flour mixed and sifted with baking powder and salt. Turn into greased muffin pans and bake in hot oven 400 deg. F. for 20 to 25 minutes.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Monday, May 20

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—A tendency to be reserved, dignified; a student of nature; a lover of the arts, little children and the helpless and unfortunate. Though of a deep and affectionate nature, you are not inclined to be demonstrative or jealous. Building, engineering, working with machinery particularly suited to your talents. Also possess a flair for acting, music. Strive to attain perfection in your life's work rather than strain for glory in an unknown field.

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 76.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is gold.

Cupid's Understudy

By Hollis Starnes

FOR forty years Cappy Quinn has worked around the Broadway theater. In his four decades of service as porter, watchman, stage doorman and elevator man, this wiry little son of Erin has seen the New York theater district move nearly a mile uptown. He has, in fact, moved with it.

Cappy's first job on the Gay White Way was helping the porter at Wallack's. That was at 28th st., and at the turn of the century. A decade later he progressed ten blocks uptown to the Knickerbocker. His next move was to 42d st., where, from his vantage point as elevator man in a theater office building, he watched the most opulent era of American stage history.

Soon after the market crash of 1929, Cap advanced another two blocks northward and became night elevator man of another theater building. Having seen the White Lights region survive some dark days, this well-seasoned veteran still presides over his 44th st. bailiwick, mellow, humorous and wise in the ways of Broadway.

He was christened Thomas Aquinas, related Cap the other midnight, when his elevator traffic was at a standstill, and he was in a revealing mood. The Great Ziegfeld began calling him "Captain" back in the days of the World War, and Cap he has been ever since.

"Yes, sure," mused the little man thoughtfully. "I've seen many changes in me day on Broadway. Only human nature stays the same. Showfolks have their ups an' downs, their successes an' flops—but where's there a life so full of fun an' excitement, good work an' real romance?

"If I could write up the romances I've seen, they'd fill a bookshelf. Sure, I've had a hand meself in plenty o' them. What do ye think the lad I took upstairs half an hour ago called me? 'Cupid's Understudy.' That's about right. That's me!

ROMANCE IN WIND

"There's romance in the wind tonight," he confided. "All I hope is, that in the lad's excitement he don't mix his signals!

"When I took him up to pop the question, we fixed it so's I'll know the results. As they're leavin', if he pushes the elevator bell once, she's refused him. Twice, she wants time to think it over. Thrice," he clapped his hands in delight at this prospect, "twill be a June weddin'.

"You see," he explained, "this bein' a theatrical building, some of our tenants work at night. There's no one in just now but the tenth floor pair, but most nights we've auditions goin' on, conferences, play readin'—people catchin' up on their work.

"Some say night's the only time they can get in a good hour's labor. I make it me job to keep the place quiet and peaceful," the old fellow stated proudly. "Nobody gets upstairs unless I know 'em. Most of our tenants have been here, like meself, since the place opened. Course we had the big tenth floor move New Year's."

All Broadway mourned that move, which took the great producer whom we shall call John Dunn, away from his headquarters into the bankruptcy court and thence to a sanitarium. In recent seasons Dunn had experienced a series of failures, and just before the holidays his final crash came. A new and rich firm had taken over his offices intact, except for one cubbyhole which had formerly served as a store room.

This cramped corner was now the only place where people of "the Street" knew messages would reach John Dunn. Every night his faithful former secretary, Carol Christy, came after work in her new job, to look for mail and manuscripts.

Broadway admired young Carol's loyalty to her aged ex-employer, though perhaps nobody but herself believed he could ever make a comeback.

Cappy Quinn revealed himself as a devotee of the girl's. "Sure she's a livin' saint," he rhapsodized. "All winter long, snow or sleet, she'd be here after her own hard day's work and bite o' supper, to answer the mail and look for manuscripts.

"'Cappy,' she'd always say when I handed her whatever came, 'Some day you'll give me the play that will bring him back, bigger than ever.' An' her big brown eyes would give ye a longin' look fit to break yer heart!

"At that," Cap declared, "lots o' people began sendin' her plays. Oftimes she'd be here readin' till past midnight."

THE FUN BEGINS

He whirled around on his stool to preface the hero's entrance in his story. "Along about Easter," he related, "the big money man of the new firm arrived, after his season at Palm Beach. You know who young Bradford Stone is—sure, his old man's money keeps his name in the papers. Still an' all, he a grand young feller, an' wild about show business. Now I'm askin' ye, where could he have more fun an' still do more good with his money, than by givin' work to show folks? As he himself says, they're the ones that keep the world entertained an' in these days the world needs plenty of entertainment!

"The first time young Bradford arrived after the theater, he'd a mob o' friends along. They decided to have a housewarmin' upstairs. I ordered food an' drinks sent in, from Sardi's, an' the party was a big success—except with the other tenants. They set up a terrible howl—an' maddest of all was Miss Carol, the noise bein' right in her ears.

"All young Stone said when I told him about the complaints," chuckled Cap, "was to invite the neighbors in to join the party. He got the habit of droppin' in every night after that, always with a mob along.

"Well, sir, Miss Carol stood it a week; then she let out! Marched herself right in to Stone an' told him this was a place where people worked—there were night clubs for folks like himself with nothin' to do but play. She wound up by tellin' him how he an' his kind were desecratin' the offices of John Dunn.

"When she come downstairs," the old man recalled, "her eyes were still blazin.' Young Stone an' his crowd left soon after. Then he came back an' asked me all about Carol — who she was and what she was doin' workin' up there all alone at night. I'd a few drinks under the belt, an' whatever I'd say he'd keep tellin' me: 'She was the loveliest thing with those big brown eyes snapping!'"

But Cap managed to tell Bradford Stone the story of John Dunn, and of Carol Christy's quest for a play.

His eyes glistening, he proceeded: "Next night, in comes me fine lad all by himself, an' cold sober. 'Cap,' says he. 'I'm goin' up an' apologize to Miss Christy. What's more I'm goin' to insist on her usin' her old office when she works at night. That hole in the wall's no place for a beautiful girl.'"

PLAYBOY REFORMS

So moved was the story-teller by this recollection of gallantry that he got up and pranced about. "Where was I" he resumed. "Oh yes. He went off then an' didn't show up for a week. That time he'd an armful o' manuscripts.

"'I been doin' a bit o' readin' herself Cap'," says he, mysterious like.

When Carol comes down later on, she says, 'Cap, I judged Mr. Stone too harshly at first. He's not a playboy at all. He's very kind. He gave me back my old office to work in, and now he's tryin' to help me find a play. Everyone knows how much money he's got, so he can get scripts from the best known authors.'

"An' she says if they find something really good, young Stone 'll back Mr. Dunn."

Perched back on his stool again, Cap continued.—"The pair o' them have been workin' up there a month now, readin' and havin' a secretary take down reports for Dunn. Last night when himself went off with a load o' plays to read, I asked him, just to pass the time o' day, if he'd not found the right one yet. And what d'ye think o' this for an answer?

"'Maybe I've not found the right play,' says he, 'but I've found the right girl. Cap—an' that's a thing more important. Tomorrow's my birthday,' he says, 'I'll be thirty, an' my playboy twenties are a thing of the past.' Then he tells me he's goin' to ask Carol to marry him, an' asks me to wash him luck."

Thomas Aquinas Quinn's blue eyes were dancing. "When he come in awhile ago, all dressed up from his birthday party, I decorated him with a lucky shamrock, a four leaf clover, a hares foot and—"

The buzzer sounded and he leaped from his stool. By the time one, two, three ominous rings had registered, he was down the corridor and inside his elevator.

"Cupid's understudy, that's me!" he cackled, and started up to the realm of romance.

'Saturday's Children' Opens Thursday at Para - Fenway

Anne Shirley, Garfield Starred

John Garfield, who was a "problem" child before the noted educator, Angelo Patri, took him in hand, and Anne Shirley, a teen-age Hollywood celebrity who is making a comeback at 20, are the co-stars of "Saturday's Children." The Warners' screen version of Maxwell Anderson's Pulitzer Prize-winning play, comes to the Paramount and Fenway screens on Thursday.

Born on New York's lower East Side, Garfield was on the way to becoming a juvenile delinquent when he landed in Patri's school for problem children. The noted educator interested him in boxing and in oratory, helped him get a scholarship at a school of drama. It was with the Group Theatre that he rose to prominence, and while he was playing in "Golden Boy" that he accepted a Warner Brothers' contract. His work in "Four Daughters" brought him immediate attention.

Recently, he came east to co-star with those other Hollywood stars, Alma MacMahon and Harry Carey in Albert Bein's comedy fantasy, "Heavenly Express." Neither the critics nor the public were very kind and "Heavenly Express," was forced to close.

Garfield might well turn "problem" child over this turn of events. Instead, he is having the time of his life seeing the shows and the night-spots. The other night, at Olsen and Johnson's new "Hellzapoppin," his laugh resounded heartily through the Winter Garden. Gifted with several yards of hot-dogs and the "fixin's," a loaf of bread, a gill of mustard and a bottle of beer, he reacted like a kid at his own surprise-party.

These young stars are supported in "Saturday's Children" by a notable group of screen "names," including Claude Rains, Roscoe Karns, Lee Patrick, Dennie Moore, George Tobias, Berton Churchill and Elizabeth Risdon.

The second feature, "King of the Lumberjacks," is also a first-run Warner Brothers' production.

ANNE SHIRLEY and JOHN GARFIELD are co-starred in "Saturday's Children," coming Thursday to the Paramount and Fenway screens. It is Warners' screen version of Maxwell Anderson's Pulitzer Prize-winning play.

New Gayety Goes On Film Schedule

The New Gayety initiates its new summer policy this week with a double-feature film program, namely "Rulers of the Sea," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and "Honeymoon in Bali," co-starring Fred MacMurray and Madeleine Carroll. There will be new shows Sunday, Wednesday and Friday.

Three Popular Stars Top Old Howard 'Jazztime' Bill

These three burlesque beauties are too well known to need description other than to remind Old Howard patrons that Miss Clark is popularly designated as "the apiciest girl in burlesque," Roxanne regularly returns to this burlesque stamping-ground with THE newest eye-popping dance number and Miss Sunde, recent Chicago night club sensation, is one of the circuit's most popular entertainers.

Roxanne

Other feminine headliners are the glamourous Melanie Lebeau, the dancing Romayne and the charming Parisian, Ethel De-Veaux.

Jack Diamond, poker-faced comic, has been held over by popular request, and is this week being assisted by Billy Foster and Danny Jacobs.

A special feature of the bill is the Jacqueline Hurley Trio, acrobatic dancers who are making their sole eastern appearance.

M-G-M STUDIOS ARE ALL SET FOR BANNER FILM YEAR

52 Feature Pictures on New Schedules

In the coming motion picture year, which starts Sept. 1, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will continue its policy of making 52 feature films. It is reported that the M-G-M studio has never been so well prepared with planned story properties, scripts in work, casts assigned and production shooting.

Starting with "Waterloo Bridge," which is now being shown, with Vivien Leigh and Robert Taylor as stars, the coming montas will bring to the screen "Susan and God," starring Joan Crawford and Fredric March, "The Mortal Storm," from the novel by Phyllis Bottome, starring Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart; "New Moon,' starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy; "Pride and Prejudice," starring Greer Garson and Laurence Oliver; "Andy Hardy Meets a Debutante," starring Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland; "Boom Town," with four stars, Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr; and "I Love You Again," starring William Powell and Myrna Loy.

SHEARER, GARBO FILMS

It is likely that the first release of the new season will be "Escape" a screen adaptation of the internationally successful novel by Ethel Vance, with Norma Shearer as the Countess and Robert Taylor playing Mark Preysing.

Greta Garbo, who scored one of the greatest successes of her career in her last picture, "Ninotchka," will have the title role in "Madame Curie," a dramatic story of the life of the famous scientist and discoverer of radium, based on the book by Eve Curie.

The famous "Thin Man" starring combination of Myrna Loy and William Powell will be reunited in "The Thin Man's Shadow." Miss Loy will also be starred in "Third Finger, Left Hand," and "The Road To Rome," based on the Robert E. Sherwood play.

GABLE AND TRACY

Clark Gable will be starred with Myrna Loy in "The Great Canadian," the story of a hockey star.

Other Gable vehicles on the M-G-M list are "Witch of the Wilderness," a melodrama with a South American jungle background; "The Life of Simon Bolivar," based on the career of the famous South American patriot; and "Osborne of Sing Sing," in which Robert Taylor is co-starred.

Spencer Tracy is scheduled to make at least three new pictures "The Ex-Mayor of Boys Town," sequel to "Boys Town"; "Sea of Grass," based on Conrad Richter's dramatic novel of New Mexico; and "The Yearling," an adaptation of the best-seller by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings.

Norma Shearer will make two pictures, based on stage successes. They are "Tonight at 8:30," an adaptation of incidents in Noel Coward's skein of one-act plays; and "The World We Make," based on Sidney Kingsley's Theater Guild production. She will also be starred in "Forever," an original story, with a novel and dramatic theme.

HEPBURN ON LIST

Katharine Hepburn will play the leading role in a screen version of her long-run stage hit, "The Philadelphia Story." This will mark Miss Hepburn's first appearance as a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star. The Marx Brothers will be seen in "Go West."

Two pictures are announced for Joan Crawford. One will be "Bombay Nights," an adaptation of the Louis Bromfield story. The second is tentatively known as "Woman's Face."

Robert Taylor will appear opposite the new M-G-M star, Lana Turner, in "Tropical Hurricane." Taylor will also be seen in "Cause for Alarm" and "Flight Command."

Wallace Beery will be starred in "Wyoming" and in "Combat Car."

HARDY, KILDARE SERIES

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will continue its popular Hardy Family and Dr. Kildare series. In addition to carrying on the Andy Hardy tradition, Mickey Rooney will be seen in at least three other new M-G-M productions. He will co-star with Spencer Tracy in "The Ex-Mayor of Boys Town." The musical starring team of Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland will appear in two new musical vehicles, "Strike Up the Band" and "Babes on Broadway."

One of James Stewart's parts of the new season will be "Wings on His Back." Robert Montgomery's first picture of the new year will be "I Had a Comrade," Ann Sothern will appear in "Dulcy."

One of the most ambitious musical productions of the new season will be "Ziegfeld Girl," in which James Stewart, Hedy Lamarr, Eleanor Powell and Lana Turner are to appear. Miss Powell will also be seen in the new "Broadway Melody of 1941." Other musical productions will include "Little Nellie Kelly," the George M. Cohan stage success, in which Judy Garland will appear; Noel Coward's "Bitter Sweet" and "I Married an Angel." Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald will be co-starred in "Bitter Sweet" and "I Married an Angel."

Swing Queen Stars at Globe

Joan Lee, burlesque's internationally popular swing-queen, is the blonde blitzkrieg of the Globe's current burlesque revue. Not only is she offering her attention-getting repertory but a new and sensational dividend as well which is better seen than described.

Another exciting personality on the bill is Lillian Marshall, alleged to be a Brazilian import. As red-hot as her hair, in the opinion of the customers, is Diane Logan's specialty performance.

Seats are now on sale for the extra midnight show, to be given Memorial Day eve, May 29.

MONEY TO LOAN | MONEY TO LOAN | MONEY TO LOAN

LOANS

YOU CAN BORROW $100 IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $6.41 A MONTH

Do you want to get a cash loan quickly and simply? At Household Finance you can borrow $20 to $300 without endorsers or guarantors, if you can make regular monthly payments. And you needn't even leave your own home to apply for the money you need. You may repay your loan on the installment plan which best fits your own purse.

Choose your own payment plan

Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. (Loans also made in other amounts and for other periods.) Note that you may make very small payments if you wish. Note also that the sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.58 each, or a total of only $106.32, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. (Payments shown in the table include all charges.)

CASH LOAN YOU GET	AMOUNT YOU PAY BACK EACH MONTH Including All Charges
	3 months loan	4 months loan	6 months loan	8 months loan	10 months loan	12 months loan	16 months loan	20 months loan
$ 25	$12.97	$ 6.65	$ 4.54	$ 3.49	$ 2.86	$ 2.44

300	155.65	79.75	54.46	41.84	34.28	29.25	22.98	19.24

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month. This rate is less than the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law.

What you do to borrow

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is to acquaint us with your problem. We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) No credit inquiries made of friends or relatives. And you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly and simply.

Study the loan and payment table. Then come in or telephone most convenient office for full information without obligation.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

NARRAGANSETT PARK earned close to 80 cents a share on its 360,000 shares of stock during its 28-day meeting . . . It is likely that the Narragansett directors will vote a 50 cent dividend with another melon to be cut up following the summer meeting . . . Narragansett has been the big money maker among the New England horse tracks.

Judge Dooley

President James E. Dooley is likely to suggest to his board of directors that financial reserves be set up to meet any situation that may arise if the United States should become involved in the war . . . Charles F. Adams, president of Suffolk Downs, is already looking ahead to the possibility of war as is true with other leading business executives.

The race tracks would continue in operation in the event of war, but naturally would experience a sharp falling off in attendance and in mutuel handle . . . Adams says Suffolk Downs would wish to operate even if it were necessary to do so at a loss . . . Lou Smith of Rockingham Park said that during the World War the tracks kept opened and he believes they would do so if this country were to become involved in the present war.

Race track executives, like every other American, are anxious that this country keep out of war, but if war cannot be avoided they wish to have their own courses mapped out . . . There has been some racing in England and in Ireland this year, but the old enthusiasm is lacking . . . It is impossible for any people to be keenly interested in racing or in any other sport during a period when millions of its men and women are engaged in war.

Suffolk Downs Ready for 60-Day Meeting

SUFFOLK DOWNS is ready for its 60-day meeting . . . Racing Secretary Charley McLennan says he has better horses than he had at Suffolk Downs a year ago . . . He is looking forward to a successful meeting.

Charles F. Adams, Bruce Wetmore, Frank Ryan and other Suffolk Downs executives will entertain at the Paddock before today's races . . . Leaders in business and civic affairs will take time out to try their ability at picking winners . . . I hope the form horses do better than they did at Narragansett Park on closing day . . . The eight Narragansett favorites were beaten . . . I went down with Liberty Flight in the feature race . . . I had previously, won with Night Editor at Narragansett, and didn't use good judgment in failing to back this newspaper special.

Battle Jack ran a good second to Night Editor, only being beaten out by a neck . . . Sassy Lady ran up on Night Editor coming through the stretch, and fell . . . This interference may have been enough to have cost Battle Jack his chance of winning . . . Battle Jack has been racing well this year, and should step into the winner's circle at Suffolk Downs.

I also suggest that you tab Mar Le who ran a good third to Battle Jack.

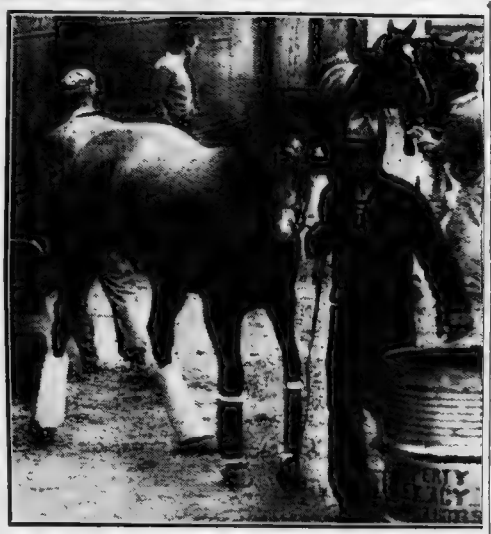
Governor Attends Suffolk Opening

By TOM SHEHAN

It has all been said before in thousands of well-chosen words, but on the chance that you read only from the Braille and can't hear without the aid of eletrical equipment, we'd like to tap out the message to you on this blooming lyre that at Suffolk Downs they'll cry, "They're Off!" at 2:15 this afternoon.



"SUFFOLK, WE ARE HERE." Louchheim stables' horses arrive at Suffolk Downs for 60-day meeting which opens today. Horses competed in recent meet at Pimlico, Md.

The "They" in question, of course being the horses which have been assembled for betting purposes in East Boston's large and elegant race track in a plebeian setting. Which calls for all kinds of hoorays and huzzahs for it's nice to know that the only assault contemplated in this sector is the one which the two dollar bettors are contemplating on the Maginot Line of Cashiers which Mr. Mert Mahony has assembled with the help of our statesmen.

The only kind of ammunition which the rules for this kind of warfare will allow is that of the denominations which fold. At $2 a pop, or more if you want to lay it on the line, you can take your stab at beating a public favorite, an equine one.

SEVENTH SEASON

Southern Boston will be there, East Boston will be there, the North End, South End, West End, and Roxbury. Not to miss mentioning bored Brookline, Newton, Medford, and many other towns and hamlets, but this is no geography lesson.

What we're trying to say is that we'll all be there if only the Weather Man casts a tolerant glance in the direction of Suffolk Downs.

He can get a thank you from you and you and you if he will only steer any storms heading this way around the gold and blue of the East Boston park of chance.

We have been present at five of six openings at Suffolk Downs, last year's being the only one we missed., and while our memory may be frayed, it seems to us that it rained on four of those five festive occasions, and that's why we have our fingers crossed.

BE JABBERS 122

We're anxious to see the sun shine because from the looks of the list of stables bivouacked on our doorstep this morning, just about everybody in the upper crust of the turf will have some kind of an equine eating his head off in the East Boston stables.

There are Bradley, Louchheim, King Ranch, and almost every

"I'LL NEVER QUIT BASEBALL'--GROVE

By JOE CASHMAN

DETROIT, Mich., May 20—Robert Moses Grove faces the acid test today. If, after four straight failures to go nine innings, he doesn't last and steer our pace-setting Red Sax to a win over the Detroit Tigers in the opener of an abbreviated two-game series, it can safely be set down that the 40-year-old Mose has performed the last of his mound miracles.

For on good days or bad, with sound arm or lame, he's been a 2 to 1 bet against the Bengals ever since he first stacked up against them 15 years ago.

His record against the Detroiters over the seasons is nothing short of incredible. He's twisted their tails some 60 times as against not more than 15 defeats.

HAS SORE FOOT

The Lion of Lonaconing enters this fray handicapped by a sore foot. A crack in the skin between two toes of his right foot has been giving him considerable pain of late.

"But that trouble won't prevent me beating the Tigers if I have my control," he states. "My only trouble in recent starts was inability to locate the plate. I had perfect control in the opening game in Washington. Since then I've been wild.

"I can't understand or explain it. My arm is strong and feels great. I have plenty of stuff. I just can't get the ball where I want it.

"In my last start in Chicago I was anything but effective but I was better than I had been in my three games before that. I'm hopeful of showing further improvement today and going the distance."

CRONIN'S VERSION

Manager Joe Cronin, of course, is not only hoping but praying that Mose shows signs of being his old

WILSON'S TELLS HOW TO FIGURE HORSES

By DAVE WILSON

No doubt most horse players, however recent their contact with horse racing, realize that occasionally it is possible to beat the races by following some jockey, some stable, some horses, but in the long run you find it costly to be setimental about horses, jockeys, orstables.

Another temptation the horse player must guard against if he is to be successful is the temptation to attempt to "get out" after betting on a few losers. In connection with this I always think of a reply a handicapper friend of mine who makes his living playing the horses made to a novice who had watched him blow $1000 bet on a horse that figured to gallop home and remarked, "I suppose you're plunging to get that grand back, Fred?"

"I've already forgotten that $1000 bet," was Fred's reply, "I'm trying to win a $10 show bet on the top horse."

Fred is a successful horse player because he makes his choice, bets his money, and as soon as the race is run forgets about his wager whether he has won or lost. He is too busy concentrating on winning his next bet.

AVOID RECKLESSNESS

After conquering the impulse to ward recklessness in wagering, or a leaning towards sentimental attachments, you must concentrate on absorbing all the knowledge of horses and their peculiarities that it is possible for the average layman to absorb with his limited contacts among horsemen, trainers and jockeys.

Don't waste any time trying to guess what the stables have in mind, because it will be mighty costly to find out how often you can be wrong.

The best way to get that knowledge of horses which is so essential to successful handicapping is by watching them run, watching them work out in the morning, and studying the records.

Make a habit of analyzing the impressions you garner from all these sources of knowledge which are to provide you with a background in the sport

The successful horse player cannot have too much patience. By patience I mean he must willing to sit and watch the races day after day, week after week, without making a bet unless the horse is a standout in the specifications the horse player lays down for himself.

As any horse player knows, this is the most difficult thing in the world to do. The regular patron of the race tracks gets enough supposedly legitimate information in the course of a day at the races to fill out a library.

The sad part of it all is that most of this information is well meant, the donors being anxious to share their "hot stuff" so that you can take advantage of their good "fortune?"

CONDITION OF HORSE

All such information must resolutely be cast aside, no matter how many "good things" you may overlook in doing so. Start playing those "good things" and it is one of the peculiarities of horse playing that they start running where most of them belong—among the ALSO RANS.

During the course of learning about horses the horse player must learn to recognize when a horse is really sore and when it is possible for him to be sore and work it out in the preliminary warming up and run his race.

Some of the greatest horses of all time have been notably sore and lame going to the post, but by the time the race was under way, or before it had gone very far, all traces of soreness were gone and they were running their race.

C. S. Howard's great horse Seabiscuit seldom went on the track for a race without varying degrees or traces of soreness, but once he started to roll he was a hard horse to beat.

Oddly enough, while having bad legs, Seabiscuit preferred speedy ovals to those which were heavy, either from the rains or from natural conditions.

When you have learned to spot the differences between soreness which can be worked out and soreness which cannot, your wagering problems will be lessened.

Veteran handicappers have told me that the minute they saw Sir Barton come out on the track at Kenilworth Park for his famous match race with Man O' War they knew he was not right.

Shortly before the match race at Pimlico between Seabiscuit and War Admiral, one of the country's outstanding trainers who had shipped into New England for a stake race told me that War Admiral wasn't himself, but I didn't think that the horse had slipped enough to be beaten by Seabiscuit. The result of the race proved me wrong.

(Third of a series on how to be a successful handicapper, by Dave Wilson, will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American. It will tell what is a solid betting horse.)

Backstretch Brevities

For the first time since racing was legalized under the pari-mutuel laws in this state, all saliva tests taken under the jurisdiction of the Massachusetts Racing Commission will be analyzed by a local firm of chemists.

Skinner & Sherman, a local firm of industrial chemists on Stuart st., will take over the duties hitherto performed by the chemists for the New York State Racing Commission, Dr. Catlett and Dr. Morgan, it was learned here.

The commission wished to have the analyzing done under its direct supervision. The former method was often inconvenient, especially in the case of tests made during the latter stages of any meetings under the commission supervision.

Red McIntosh takes charge of the jocks' room at Suffolk Downs after working as a valet at Narragansett . . . Danny Shea is running his stable at Charlestown . . . Don Fair, who called the races over the public address system two years ago at Rockingham, is covering the Detroit meeting for the Racing Form.

Rabbit Dabson, an old New England favorite, starts riding at Suffolk Downs . . . Frank Harris, who handled D. Johnston's riding engagements at Narragansett Park, takes up his duties as a valet at Suffolk.

Rumors continue to fly around that the jockeys will refuse to go to the room today or to accept mounts if the agents are denied the privilges of making engagements, but we doubt if the agents go through with their plans for a boycott . . . Jockeys Rosen, Taylor, and Berger, as representatives of the jockeys, promised the Racing Commission that they would try the rule for two weeks. If it didn't work in that time, the Commission gave its word the rule would be abolished.

Fighting Phillies Big 1940 Surprise

By Associated Press

The once-collapsible Quaker City set in the National League refuses to roll over and play dead any more.

Doc Prothro, the good dentist, yanked a couple of ailing "teeth" from his infield, put in a right nifty bridge as replacement, and, what with a fair set of young pitchers, his boys are really snapping at the opposition.

Now, this isn't to say the Phils are going to win the pennant. That's probably asking a little too much in one order. Besides, the Cincinnati Reds, who boosted their league lead to a game and a half with an 8-4 win over the Boston Bees yesterday, may have something to say about that.

PHILS WINNING

But the Phils have taken four of the five starts on their current home stand, topping it off with a 6-5 decision the "hard way" over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday. Right now they're way up there in fifth place, which is as familiar to the Phils as pate de fois gras to the Bowery.

The folk in the City of Brotherly Love tell you this coming-to-life of their club dates back to April 30, when Doc popped up with Bob Bragan (fresh from Pensacola) at shortstop, and Art Mahan (out of Louisville) for first base.

Up to that point, the Phillies had dropped five or six outings. But with the revamped infield and some pretty fair pinging by Kirby Higbe, Ike Pearson and Hugh Mulcahy, they turned right around and, for the merry month of May, have chalked up seven wins in 13 starts.

CUBS WIN NIGHTMARE

They pulled one out of the hat yesterday when Bennie Warren, a bench-warming catching hopeful, singled with the bases loaded in the ninth to whip the bungling Bucs. Earlier in the game Chuck Klein hit his third homer in eight days.

In fact, most of the National League winners were pulling 'em out of the hat yesterday. The Chicago Cubs spotted the Brooklyn Dodgers five runs in a third inning rally and then came on to win out, 7-6, in the 10th on Rip Russell's homer with a mate aboard, thereby climbing back into third place in the league standings.

This game went from the sublime to the ridiculous and wound up with the Cubs using 19 players and Manager Gabby Hartnett playing first base.

The St. Louis Cardinals, after blowing a three-run lead, tied it up on Joe Orengo's eighth-inning homer against the New York Giants, and finished on top, 6-5, in the tenth when the same Mr. Orengo came through with a single to shove the deciding run home. Johnny Mize hit his 12th homer of the season.

Only in Boston was it anything but close. Bucky Walters went to work up there in the hub, treated himself to a five-hitter for the Reds and knocked off the Bees for his sixth straight win.

CHISOX LOSE AGAIN

With all due respect to Bucky's elbowing, the best tossing of the afternoon was provided by Cleveland's Bobby Feller at the expense of the New York Yankees. Master Bobby chalked up his fifth victory of the year, pitching a four-hitter for a 5-1 win over the woeful world champions.

The Chicago White Sox did their best to produce their first home victory of the season, but despite a five-run rally in the ninth, they wound up on the short end of a 12-9 count with Washington in a game marked by a half-dozen homers.

Old Elden Auker was handed an eight-run edge in the first five innings, so it was no trick at all for him to pitch the St. Louis Brownies to a 10-4 victory over the Athletics.

ARCHIBALD BATTLES JEFFRA

BALTIMORE, May 20 (AP)—Two leather-throwing little guys with lots of ambition will meet tonight in a fight that will at least settle a personal grudge even if it doesn't untangle the argument over the featherweight boxing title.

Opponents in the 15-round scrap billed as a world's championship event will be Harry Jeffra of Baltimore and Joey Archibald of Providence, R. I.

Maryland and New York will recognize the bout as a title scrap, but the National Boxing Ass'n has refused to sanction it. In the N. B. A.'s book, Petey Scalzo is the champ.

Zanelli Seen K. O. Threat To Champion in Go Here

The fight experts figure Henry Armstrong, welterweight champion, will have to improve on his showing against Paul Junior in order to escape defeat in his 15-round title stand against Ralph Zanelli, Providencee, Friday night at the Garden.

Comparing P. Junior and Zanelli the critics find the Providence Popeye much better qualified to fight Armstrong and are according him a bright chance of upsetting the sepia superman, who at one time held three world championships.

P. Junior and Zanelli stand all even in courage, stamina and durability. Zanelli is given a big edge in hitting power, P. Junior in boxing ability.

But boxing ability doesn't amount to shucks against a glorified club fighter like Armstrong, and so it develops that Zanelli is given a bigger edge in possibilities than P. Junior.

Boxing ability may as well be pegged out the window when fighting Armstrong for there's little can be done about his "style" of walking in, burying his chin on your shoulder and slugging away.

ARTESANI MINE DUELS CARTERS

Johnny Smith will mount the C. J. Lee Park rubber tonight for the Artesani Club of Allston when it appears, at City Point to engage the Carter's Clothiers in one of five Boston Park League games scheduled.

Johnny lost to Carter's last week after holding the opposition scoreless and hitless for four frames, and tonight he will attempt to equalize the loss.

The West divisional Dick Casey Club will be at home tonight in Dorchester where it plays its first with the new Hellenics club. Jabber Jackowitz is slated to serve his fireball fo Casey, and the Greeks will match Rhodes against the former Murphy Club chucker.

St. Alphonsus will again rely heavily on Bill Dean's stickwork tonight to protect its Eastern divisional first place spot when Joe McCarthy takes his St. Catherines outfit to Fens Stadium. Joe will pitch either Powers or O'Brien against the McDermott mainstay for the Stadium tenants

Old rivalry will spring anew at Healy Field in Roslindale tonight when the two Bills of the circuit, Benson of St. Augustines and Bailey of the Town Club, match wits.

St. Augustines has not lived up to past performances thus far in the race while the Town Club is still the potent Roslindale crew.

Golfer Hogan Great But Lacking in Color

By BILL GRIMES

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., May 20—Two years ago Little Ben Hogan, the wiry Texan, who topped the top-notch professionals of the country by winning the third annual Goodall Round Robin tournament at Fresh Meadow by a margin of four points over Samuel Jackson Snead, didn't have funds enough to pay his hotel bill after the Asheville, N. C., open.

When he hands his banker the $1000 check he received from Pres. Elmer Ward for winning the Goodall, Hogan will have deposited $7558 acquired from tournament golf since the first of the current year.

Hogan is a great golfer. Despite the fact that he tips the beam at only 145 pounds, he packs enough power in his little frame to keep right out with the longest hitters in the professional ranks.

Moreover, he is deadly around the greens, whether he's in traps, the rough or the aprons, and he's really a remarkable putter.

Hogan came up from the caddy ranks. He was in the game for years before he could come within sight of a balanced budget.

When he first went on the winter circuit, he practically "thumbed" his way from coast to coast. But he believed in himself and felt that he'd eventually make the grade.

He was smart enough, too, to realize that professional golf is the one and only sport in which it is possible for the participants to step from obscurity to world wide fame and fortune over a period of two or three successful season.

KILLER-DILLER

Like all professional golfers, Hogan's objective is the U. S. Open Championship. He has entered the Metropolitan open which will be played this week at the Forest Fields Club over in New Jersey.

SOFTBALL GAMES WANTED

The Allston Moose softball team would like to arrange Sunday games with any uniformed teams in New England. William Malloy, Jr., 8 Linden st., Allston.

WILSON AND McAULEY TOP GANSETT HANDICAPPERS

Bill McAuley, ace handicapper for the Daily Record, and Dave Wilson, New England turf handicapping champion for the six years he has been grading horses for the Boston Sunday Advertiser and Evening American, led all other handicappers in the first meeting of the New England racing season which was concluded Saturday.

McAuley came up with the top number of winners, 72, while Wilson had 64, to outpace the rest of the N. E. handicapping field by a comfortable margin.

Wilson is the top feature of the newest and most complete racing edition in America—the Evening American Green Race Special. McAuley's selections also appear in the Green Race Special edition.

McAuley in his sensational success at Narragansett picked six winners in a day on two occasions and averaged better than 2.5 winners a day for the 24-day meeting.

The Green Race Special will continue to carry its outstanding number of features during the Suffolk meeting, including selections by leading handicappers, headed by Wilson and McAuley and Clocker; Trackman's Last Performances; Bert E. Collyer's Selections at all tracks; Dave Wilson's Bird Cage; Dave Wilson's Noon Phone Special; Photo Finish Suffolk Downs Race Chart; Consensus of Racing Experts and Graded Handicaps by Fred Keats at Belmont Park.

. . . While Armstrong is a strong favorite to win, a champion takes a risk every time he enters the ring . . . A puncher like Zanelli might get over a winning smash, or cut Armstrong up during mixups at close quarters.

If the Armstrong-Zanelli bout had not been made before the Armstrong-Jenkins bout was signed for New York, the bout never could have been booked . . . Armstrong and Jenkins will draw over $200,000 and Hammering Henry takes a chance of losing this big money shot by either losing to Zanelli or getting hurt in the Garden bout.

Henry Chmielewski, New England middleweight champion, is training at Harry Kelley's gym for his bout with Ernie Vigh on the Ceferino Garcia-Ken Overlin card at the New York Garden on Thursday night . . . Chmielewski will challenge the winner in the event he adds Vigh to his list of victims.

PHIL BUCCOLA was at Narragansett Park on Saturday trying to pick a few winners . . . The Gansett closing was a banner affair for the long shot players . . . One could have made a hat full of money buying the four long shots in each race . . . Call it blind betting if you will, but on Saturday it would have been much more profitable than playing the form horses.

Bobby Goldman, Billy Ames' "Right Eye," planned to take in the Suffolk Downs opening . . . Bobby says he car now relax while he is doping out the horses . . . President James E. Dooley will be busy winding up the affairs of the Narragansett spring meeting for a few days, but expects to visit Suffolk Downs on Wednesday.

Gallahadion and now Corydon . . . Looks as if Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimelech isn't the horse he has been touted as being . . . Not when he gets beaten by 35 to 1 and 42 to 1 shots.

American Derby Has 58 Eligibles

CHICAGO, May 20 (INS)—Fifty-eight three-year-olds remain eligible for the Thirteenth running of the $40,000 added American Derby, and 149 two-year-olds for the $20,000 added Washington Park Futurity, President Walter Gregory revealed today

Slugging Freshman Headed for Heights

By SAM COHEN

That was Bob Quinn, President of the Bees, speaking after swallowing another losing decision and trying to answer a question as to whether or not there was any trade news to report, following a brief huddle with Manager Casey Stengel and Bill McKechnie, boss of the Reds.

None would say that there was any discussion of a trade but it is a cinch that McKechnie, who is just a whisker in front in this National League race, would like to pick up some batting punch to insure a second straight pennant for Cincinnati.

Speculation among the boys gathered in the press room at National League Park was that McKechnie was gunning for Max West, but if McKechnie was looking for some batting power and if there was any discussion of a deal we're willing to bet that the discussion included Chet Ross, the sensational Bees rookie.

LONGER THAN LOMBARDI'S

More than McKechnie will be looking for Ross before long, because this kid is going to become the No. 1 batting sensation of the National League.

No doubt McKechnie's eyes did a bit of a dance when he got a peek at that home run Ross pasted over the left field wall yesterday, and then saw the mighty Ernie hit one in the same direction that fell short of the kid's clout.

No doubt he also heard about the one which Ross hit Saturday against the Pirates, which not only cleared the left field fence, but landed on the railroad tracks a good 450 foot away from the plate.

No doubt, McKechnie knows too, that Ross is pacing the National League in triples with six and that two of these, hit in Pittsburgh, would have been home runs in any other park. And he also knows that Ross, in his first year up, is batting well over .300 and very likely to finish that way.

You may weep or laugh over the plight of the Bees these days, but nevertheless they are moulding a young and powerful baseball organization. Ross alone will soon pay big dividends as a big league attraction and make quite a difference in the present Bees ball club.

WILL RIVAL WILLIAMS

He isn't the perfect ball player, nor the greatest hitter that has come along. But he soon will compare with the greatest hitters around and become as big a star in the eyes of local baseball fans as Teddy Williams of the Red Sox is right now.

Ross, at times, looks bad at the plate, but it must be considered that he has had very little experience, being but 21 years of age.

Yesterday some one pointed out that Ross looks bad trying to catch players at the plate. They thought he had a weak arm, but Long George Kelly came to his defense there.

Kelly said that Ross had a good arm, but he throws the ball side arm instead of overhand.

"The way Ross throws causes the ball to spin into the dirt. As a result there is no life to the bounce which makes his throw look bad. He's correcting that and when he does, he'll be just as good as most big league outfielders in that department," said Kelly.

Meanwhile the Bees have another stormy session in front of them this afternoon when they face the champion Cincinnati Reds in the second game of a three game series.

After being held to five hits yesterday by Bucky Walters, who chalked up his sixth win against no defeats, the Swarm opposes Junior Thompson today. Junior has a record of five wins against one defeat.

The Reds, who are now leading the league by 1½ games, teed off on four Bees pitchers, Nick Strincevich, Joe Callahan, George Barnicle and Hal Coffman, to collect 12 hits and win a 8-4 decision in the first game of the series.

'I'LL NEVER QUIT BASEBALL'--GROVE

self again this p. m. But he isn't betting on it.

"There's nothing the matter with 'Lefty's' arm," Joe opines. "As he, himself, says he had enough to go the route in all of his starts, if he had been able to get the ball over the plate.

"One guess is as good as another as to why he suddenly lost his control.

"My idea is that he's becoming physically tired, and that when he has to pitch a lot of balls in early innings, not only his arm, but his whole body becomes weary. When that happens, a pitcher can't help but be wild.

"It must be remembered that he's been playing a long, long time and that he's the oldest pitcher in the business. He can't be expected to go on being invincible forever.

"I can't, however, forget how good he was that afternoon in Washington only six weeks ago. Neither can I forget the many times he confounded everybody in the past. So regardless of how he may fare from week to week, until further notice I'll start him every sixth or seventh day. And I have a strong hunch he'll win us many more ball games."

Whether "Lefty" will want to continue if he doesn't regain his stride very soon is something else again. But the chances of any happening making him so discouraged that he'll voluntarily retire from baseball are very slim.

"In the heat of the moment," he confided to us once, "You may hear me talk about quitting. Don't pay any attention to it. As soon as I've cooled off, I'll forget all about it.

"I'll never quit baseball. I'll have to be kicked out. The game's been my whole life. I know or care about nothing else. I wouldn't know what to do with myself unless I had a baseball job."

He has one with the Sox for the rest of this year, if not permanently. He'll keep it as long as Tom Yawkey will keep him.

He might not want to go out and take a weekly drubbing if he becomes convinced he's washed up as a pitcher. But right at the moment, he's rarin' to go against the Tigers, confident he still retains his mastery over them.

The best bet today, though, is that Grove and his mates won't even play.

Three afternoons in succession now and four times in the past six playing days our league-leaders have been washed out of action. And the prediction for this afternoon is showers.

Scarsella Sold To Buffalo Club

First baseman Les Scarsella has been sold outright to the Buffalo Club of the International League, it was announced today by John Quinn of the Bees.

Scarsella, formerly with the Cincinnati Reds, was purchased this past winter after spending most of last season on the league champions' bench.

Actor "Hale Norcross" Is Serious About His Hair

BOSTON, May 19 (JW)—Hale Norcross, famous character actor, who has been on the stage for 40 years and has played in over 100 successful hits, now playing in the hit show, "The Hands of The Clock," knows that his head of hair is one of the assets which have kept him near the top of his profession for many years. Like many other leaders in the entertainment and business worlds, he consults John E. Warner. Business today places a high premium on personal appearance, and if you are losing your hair you should, in your own best interests, find out if John E. Warner can help you. Statistics show that 85% of all baldness is due to local scalp conditions which can be checked and corrected if caught in time. But John E. Warner will not accept any case for treatment where the applicant is bald or the hair too far gone. There is no charge for a private consultation and scalp examination. His offices are conveniently located at 515 Washington Street, near the corner of West Street (opposite R. H. White's). Suite 710-715. Phone Hub. 1705. Hours 10 A. M. to 8 P. M. daily—Saturdays to 6 P. M. fees for treatment are moderate. There is a separate department for women. Adv.

FAIR CLOUDY
LAST Q NEW FIRST Q FULL

Blitzkriegers Busy—The city surrendered with the withdrawal of British forces, Germans take over Brussels, capital of Belgium . . . and here, tiny land mines, imbedded among cobblestones of a main street, are removed by Nazi soldiers. They use thin rod to prod them loose.

Nazi Now

German tanks move through flag-decorated streets in Malmedy, Belgium, and Nazi caption says that this town, with Eupen and Moresnet have now returned to the Reich.

Shambles

Almost half of building is torn away after heavy artillery siege in Sedan, France. And now Allies are hurling counterattacks with tanks and planes.
